City and County Badly Crippled by Storm

City Streets Being Cleared Slowly—Trolleys Delayed by Other Traffic—County Authorities Open Some of Main Highways—Ellenville, Phoenicia and Woodstock-Saugerties Roads Still Blocked.

Kingston began Thursday afternoon digging out from under the big blizzard which swept over the city Wednesday night and Thursday morning, and it will be several days before many of the streets are opened to traffic.

The board of public works on Thursday put a large force of men to work together with the city snow plows and the snow loader in an effort to open the main arteries of traffic. The work of opening the streets is progressing as fast as possible.

Broadway, the most travelled street in the city, is open through the center but huge piles of snow are piled on both sides of the trolley tracks and all traffic is using the outer of the road. This tends to delay the running of the trolley cars which are held up by other traffic.

Subway Filled With Snow. All trolley cars are still using the Broadway crossing as the subway is filled with snow.

Probably the narrowest street in the city is Adams street which is piled so high with snow that the early morning baker was compelled to drive his horse and sleigh along the sidewalk delivering baked goods to his customers.

The blocking of many side streets has made it almost impossible to deliver coal and wood and householders who have not enough on hand to carry them until the streets are opened are out of luck.

Railroads Run On Time. All railroad trains are running about on time, although they were delayed by the storm on Thursday. The out of town bus lines are still crippled but as the county and town authorities are busy opening the roads to traffic it will be only a matter of a few days when all buses will be running close to schedule.

The city bus line is still crippled and unable to operate, but bus service will be resumed as soon as the streets through which the busses pass are opened to traffic.

Sidewalks Blocked. There are still many sidewalks in the city where the property owners have made no effort to clear the walks and are depending on pedestrians to make a "goose path" through the drifts. Unless property owners get busy and open up the sidewalks the city authorities will take action to see that the work is done.

All householders who have fire hydrants located in front of the premises would do well to clear away the snow from around the hydrant so that they can be easily located by the fire department in case of fire.

County Roads Opened. The county authorities are battling to open the main thoroughfares in the county and so far have succeeded in opening up the main highway from Kingston south to the Orange county line and north to the Greene county line.

By working all night with tractors and trucks the highway from Kingston to New Paltz was opened and today the men are working at New Paltz clearing the snow from the Normal School grounds and from New Paltz toward Modena.

The Plattekill-Modena road is being opened with one of the tractors and another tractor went out from Kingston at 4 o'clock Thursday evening toward New Paltz.

As soon as these roads are cleared the tractors will be shifted to another section of the county. The tractor which opened up the river road to the north was returning to Kingston at noon today to be dispatched on another road.

Roads Still Closed. The Flatbush road is open to traffic but at noon the Woodstock-Saugerties road had not been cleared and the highway to the west by way of West Hurley and Phoenicia was blocked.

The Ellenville road which had been closed twice was again blocked with snow drifts and great difficulty was being experienced in opening the road. This road may not be opened until Saturday or possibly Sunday. Thursday night the road had been opened as far as the High Falls road.

Trucks for Tractors and Trucks. All of the snow removal equipment in the county is in operation but the limited number of tractors and trucks at the command of County Superintendent of Highways James F. Lovelace presents work on it. When one highway is opened the equipment is sent to another section. On account of the heavy snow fall and the deep drifts which the wind piled up, trucks were of limited use. The tractors in numerous instances had difficulty in passing through the drifts which

Public Hearing On 2.75 Beer Bill

Before Senate Judiciary Committee During Last Week of February—National Referendum Ultimatum Goal of Wets—Drys Welcome Announcement.

Washington, Feb. 5.—After years of guerrilla warfare in the press, rostrum and pulpit, the wet and dry fight over modifying American prohibition will be carried direct into the halls of Congress within three weeks.

This development in the long prohibition war was assured today when Senator Walter E. Edge, Republican of New Jersey, "wet" leader, announced that the senate judiciary committee will begin public hearings upon his 2.75 per cent beer bill during the last week of February. A hundred witnesses will be summoned to plead for modification of the Volstead act and a hundred more probably will appear to defend the dry law. The hearings may run six weeks.

Wets Want Referendum. Not hopeful of victory, but encouraged by the recent action of the Protestant-Episcopal Church Temperance Society in urging modification of the dry law, the senatorial "wet" block will enter the hearings with the ultimate goal of forcing a national referendum upon prohibition. At the basis for subsequent battles while broadcasting to the world what they believe to be the fallings of prohibition.

Drys Hopeful. Dry leaders welcomed the announcement. "Both sides of the prohibition question will be shown to the public," said Senator Willis, Republican of Ohio, a dry leader. "The dries will show by government records that prohibition can be enforced, that it has brought national prosperity to America and has wiped out the evils that existed under the old intolerant saloon system. Personally, I would be glad to see the Edge bill reported to the senate, because it would be defeated by a five to one vote and the effort to modify the Volstead act might then be abandoned for a while."

All Classes as Witnesses. In the list of witnesses to be summoned by the wets will be ministers, educators, legislators, government officials, law officers, social uplift and social welfare workers. Physicians will be called to tell of the spread of insanity, the danger to the public health of poisonous bootleg concoctions. Police officials will be summoned to tell of increased crime and greater drunkenness. In rebuttal, the dries will call men and women from the same walks of life to tell how prohibition has succeeded in their communities, how the public health is improved and how crime has decreased. In the end, the American people will get a complete picture of prohibition through the spectacles of the wet and dry movement.

Alleged "Dry" Violators Held. United States Commissioner Arthur C. Connolly held John Hoffman and Peter Measia in $300 bail bond each this morning to appear before Federal Judge Cotter in New York city on February 24.

John Hoffman was arrested at 120 North Front street Wednesday evening by a United States deputy marshal for alleged violation of the Volstead Law. The marshal also held a warrant for the arrest of Peter Measia, alleged owner of the place at 120 North Front street.

Mrs. Johnston Had Charge. Mrs. I. Grant Johnston, president of the Palmyra Class of the World's Street Baptist Church, was in charge of the annual banquet which was served the members of that class and the members of the Baracca Class last Tuesday evening.

Members Cleared Its Highway. The town of Enos, which has a town tractor, cleared many of the important roads shortly after the storm subsided and today the secondary roads were being cleared of snow.

At the apnoon bus terminal it was reported that the Tice Hill and Woodstock buses had not come in at noon today.

Bogart Willing To Withdraw

Kingston Who Was Held by Courts to Have Been Legally Elected President of State Automobile Association Willing to Withdraw in Favor of Harmony Candidate—His Former Adversary Refuses.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 5.—A group of the most influential and prominent members of the New York State Automobile Association at a meeting here outlined a plan to end the split and friction in the ranks of the association.

The split came to a head at the annual meeting at Lockport last October, when the association broke up in two groups, each of which elected a set of officers. Elva H. Bogart of Kingston was named president by one group composed largely of the old association clubs, and Oscar J. Brown of Syracuse, who had been president for the past year, was chosen by the other group made up mostly of the Motor Federation Clubs which amalgamated with the State Association two years ago.

Bogart Willing, Brown Refuses. The men who are endeavoring to end the break in the association, comprise members of both groups, and under their plan, both Mr. Bogart and Mr. Brown have been asked to withdraw as candidates in the special election which has been ordered by the courts to take place in Rochester on February 23. Mr. Bogart has already consented to get out of the race, but Mr. Brown so far has refused.

Herbert A. Meldrum, ex-president of the Automobile Club of Buffalo, ex-president of the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce and one of the first presidents of the State association, has been asked by the Albany conferees to be the harmony candidate at the Rochester election. He has consented, and efforts are now being made to line up all the clubs of the association in his support.

At the Lockport meeting, Mr. Brown was supported, among others, by the three largest clubs of the association, Buffalo, New York and Syracuse. The Buffalo and New York Clubs have taken action to support Mr. Meldrum. The Syracuse Club has not indicated whether it will stick to Mr. Brown or go over to the harmony candidate. The club has sent out a request to its members for proxies, but has not indicated for which candidate they are to be voted.

Court Decision Favored Bogart. After the annual meeting at Lockport, the association had two sets of officers. Both Mr. Bogart and Mr. Brown applied to Supreme Court Justice Edgcomb for a court decision to determine who was the legally elected president. Justice Edgcomb decided in favor of Mr. Bogart and refused a stay of his order sought by Mr. Brown, pending an appeal.

Mr. Bogart then took possession and began functioning as president of the association.

Mr. Brown later appealed to the appellate division, which held that the Bogart election was in proper form, but because of lack of notice of the radical change in method of holding the Lockport election, another election was ordered to be held February 23rd at Rochester.

The Harmonizers. The men who met in Albany and drew up the harmony program for the association are:

Gaston Deper, president Automobile Club of Buffalo.

Wendell W. Chase, president New York Automobile Club, president Metropolitan Automobile Association, director American Automobile Association.

Laurens Enos, ex-president American Automobile Association, ex-president Automobile Club of Buffalo.

Harry W. Robbins, ex-president New York State Automobile Association.

Peter G. Ten Eyck, ex-president New York State Automobile Association.

Frank M. Bancus, ex-president New York State Automobile Association.

Dr. S. W. Thompson, ex-vice-president and director New York State Automobile Association, ex-president Automobile Club of Oswego.

They have issued the following statement to the members of the association:

"To the Members of the New York State Automobile Association: We believe that the time has come to end the strife, dissension and litigation which has existed in the New York State Automobile Association during the past year.

"We have requested the two presidents elected by the opposing groups at Lockport in October, to withdraw in the interest of harmony. Elva H. Bogart of Kingston, the president chosen by the so-called Anti-Brown group, has already complied with our request, and has assured me of his desire to cooperate with us in restoring peace in the state association. We are still hopeful that Oscar J. Brown of Syracuse, the leader of the other group, will do likewise.

"Herbert A. Meldrum, ex-president of the Automobile Club of Buffalo, ex-president of the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce, and one of the first presidents of the state association, has consented to become a candidate for president of the state association at the meeting called for Rochester on February 23, pursuant to the order of the appellate division.

Senate Refuses To Intervene in Coal Strike

Copeland Resolution Urging President to Call Miners and Operators to White House Is Rejected 48 to 28 With Party Lines Split in Senate.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The senate today went on record as refusing to intervene in the anthracite strike.

By a vote of 48 to 28 with party lines split, the senate refused to lay aside the new tax reduction bill to consider the Copeland resolution, urging President Coolidge to call miners and operators to the White House to end the tie-up.

This action was taken after Senators Copeland, Democrat of New York, and Edwards, Democrat, New Jersey, pleaded for action to relieve suffering among the poor in the snow ridden states of the northern Atlantic seaboard.

The administration ranks voted solidly against the motion and were joined by enough Democrats to defeat it.

Earlier, the senate passed a resolution authorizing the District of Columbia to investigate the prices of coal sold in Washington.

Copeland's Plea. "New England is now bound this morning," said Copeland. "New York and New Jersey are now bound. No coal is being moved in that section of the country today because of the snow. I grieve that Senators refuse to take any action when the president could settle this strike in two hours if he set himself to it."

Edwards, declaring he had just returned from New York where he witnessed "indescribable scenes of suffering," said:

"This is the most important situation facing congress today. Schools are closed because of lack of coal. Prices are as high as $34 and $35 a ton. President Roosevelt settled one coal strike. President Harding settled another. President Coolidge can and must settle this one."

Party Lines Split. On the vote, nine Democrats voted with the administration and seven Republicans voted with the Democrats in supporting Copeland.

Democrats then demanded sufficient time for a vote on Copeland's resolution, but Senator Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania, objected and the senate again began discussion of the tax bill.

Profiteering Among Dealers. A number of senators—Borah, Howell, Copeland, agreed "there is profiteering" among coal dealers. Howell urged congress to order the government coal yards to sell coal at once to consumers to end profiteering.

"Profiteering will cease instantly if the government coal yards are permitted to supply customers," said Howell. "It will scarcely be necessary for a ton of coal to be sold below the private dealers will restore reasonable prices. This system was tried in Omaha and Lincoln, Nebraska, and proved a complete success."

Men Entombed In Mine Dead. Horning, Pa., Feb. 5.—Conditions have arisen which will make the removal of the remaining bodies from the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company's mine, No. 4, impossible before tonight at the earliest, company officials announced today.

Rescue teams have located all of the bodies, said to number either 15 or 17.

Tests of the air in the chamber where the men were entombed by an explosion, showed the air had not cleared sufficiently to make rescue work safe. All efforts this morning were concentrated in pumping gases from the mine.

When rescue workers forced an entrance into the death chamber early today they reported to mine officials that all of the entombed men were dead.

Sidewalk Fall Broke Leg. Miss L. Leventhal of 292 Washington avenue is a patient at the Benedictine Hospital under the care of Doctors Gifford and O'Meara, having fractured her right leg Wednesday evening in a fall on a sidewalk on Washington avenue.

Mr. Meldrum has consented to do this at considerable sacrifice to himself, and only upon our assurance that it is essential for the welfare and preservation of the New York State Automobile Association, that some man, not identified with any group or faction, shall serve as president of the New York State Automobile Association at this critical point in the affairs of the association and of the motorists of the state of New York.

"In the interest of harmony, we ask all members of the New York State Automobile Association to support Mr. Meldrum for president at Rochester on February 23, and to aid us in our non-partisan efforts to end further dissension in the state association, and to prevent the possibility of a widening breach between factions which might split up the association."

Hudson Valley Red Men Coming

Contest to be Determined Among Tribes Offering Best Adoption Degree—Other Features of Big Meeting Saturday.

An invasion of Kingston by the Red Men of the Hudson valley will take place Saturday when the Hudson Valley Red Men's Association of Tribes will meet at the rooms of Minnewaska Tribe, No. 130, Improved Order of Red Men, corner of Broadway and Brewster street. The session will be called to order at 2 o'clock. One of the features of the meeting is the conferring of degrees, in order to increase interest in this work, George Wittman has offered a silver loving cup to the tribe conferring the best adoption degree. Five teams of the association will take part in this contest and the prizes to be awarded are now on display in the show windows of Rose-Gorman-Rose on North Front street.

At 6 o'clock there will be a short parade when the Red Men will trail to Holy Cross parish house where the Ladies' Auxiliary will serve a dinner. Arrangements have been made for an orchestra to furnish music during the dinner.

Arrangements have been made for the presence of Great Senior Sagamore J. Waldo Thompson of Cornwall and also for the great sachem, Mrs. Winston, the tenth direct descendant of Pocahontas, will be one of the speakers.

Following the dinner the members will return to the wigwam on Broadway, where the degree work by five different teams will be put on. Each tribe will bring its candidates for initiation. Minnewaska Tribe has 15 candidates to put through the degree work.

In connection with the meeting of the Indians there will be a meeting of the squaws. The Degree of Pocahontas will be the guest of Wichita Council of this city.

The class of candidates initiated into the order Saturday will be known as the Gage-Thompson class in honor of the election of a member of the Hudson Valley Association of Tribes to the office of great senior sagamore and in honor of Great Sachem Gage.

A silk parade flag will also be presented to the tribe making the greatest gain in membership since the last meeting in addition to the $10 prize which the association donates.

Coolidge Refuses To Talk Coal. Washington, Feb. 5.—In the face of President Coolidge's firm determination to keep "hands off" the anthracite coal strike controversy, members of congress from New York and New England renewed their efforts today to force the government's hand.

Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York, announced he had secured additional support from both Democratic and Republican ranks for his resolution demanding that the White House summon the operators and miners to Washington and instruct them to settle the strike.

Threats of a filibuster against the tax bill were being heard today among the disgruntled representatives who have met in every effort to force President Coolidge to intervene. It is doubtful, however, if these threats will materialize.

The president's fixed determination not to intervene in the matter was strikingly illustrated by his refusal even to receive at the White House a group of New York city congressmen who wanted to discuss the coal strike. Most of the intended visitors were Tammany Democrats.

"It is impossible to make an appointment to discuss the coal situation," Secretary Sanders told Representative Somers, Democrat, of New York.

Kingston Auto Show Drawing To Close

Entertainment Program Pleases Those Who Don't Own Autos; While Exhibits Furnish Additional Attraction to Auto Owners Parking Ground at Armory Cleared of Snow.

Although a blizzard raged and the streets were practically impassable, still the attendance at the automobile show Thursday was good. The attendance was smaller than the previous days but there was more interest in the cars. Those who braved the storm were interested in cars and the dealers secured more prospects than any day of the show, several sales were reported and orders were taken for future delivery.

Today the best entertainment program of the week will be heard. The famous Capitol Trio, a three-girl singing act, will feature. This act is the best of the entire week. The Capitol Trio was one of the headliner acts at the famous Capitol Theatre in New York city for some time and since has been playing in the leading theatres of the country.

Beside the Capitol Trio there are several local acts scheduled. Leon Carey of Woodstock, who is known to radio fans through his broadcasting over station WDBJ will be heard in song. Mr. Carey created a very favorable impression with his invisible audiences and now comes to the show with song numbers.

Dick Gross of Phoenicia, who is well known in this section for his fine voice, will appear. Snow-bound at Phoenicia on Thursday, he was unable to appear at that time.

Paul Purcell will also appear and sing by request "The Prisoner's Song," one of the latest popular numbers. Paul has been heard in this song over the radio and numerous requests have come to the committee to have him repeat it at the show.

In addition to this entertainment which went on at 3 in the afternoon and will be repeated at 8 and 9 o'clock for tonight, there will be a musical program by Zucca's orchestra during the afternoon and evening.

Those who desire to brave the city streets and motor to the show need not fear of getting fast in the drifts at the parking ground adjoining the armory. The parking grounds have been cleared by the board of public works and are in good condition to accommodate the cars.

Health Inventory After Y. W. Supper. There was an excellent attendance of the members of the Business Girls' Club and their friends at the Wednesday night supper at the Y. W. C. A. Wednesday evening. Following the supper, Dr. Day gave the girls a short talk on health matters, calling attention to the efforts everywhere along public health lines, to prolong human life.

People are doing everything possible to save the lives of little children, to recognize the menacing diseases liable to seize upon those of adult years, in order to prevent the same, and are now learning to have health examinations by physicians to keep them well rather than to cure them as when they get sick. Then Dr. Day helped the girls to go through the "Health Inventory," which had been provided, a sort of questionnaire, which included questions as to bathing, care of teeth, care of hair, diet, whether one is eating, sleep, clothing, posture, shoes, exercise, work, leisure time, attitude of mind.

When it came to the last mentioned item, Dr. Day was emphatic in her efforts to impress upon the girls the necessity of cultivating an optimistic frame of mind in order to keep well, and in case of sickness to try hard to retain that cheerfulness, since its curative nature is positive and considerable. Serious as this all sounds, the girls got not a little fun out of the "Inventory," as well as valuable health help, and it is hoped to have a second inventory to "check up" before long.

This will be a ball for the old folks as well as the young. Aisenbelder's orchestra will render a concert program from 8 to 9, to be followed by dancing from 9 until 3 a.m. The committee promises all night a good time.

BYRNE BROS.
BROADWAY, NEW YORK AND VAN BUREN STREETS.

SAFELY HARVEST BUMPER LAW CROP

State Legislatures Put 13,000 New Statutes on the Books.

New York.—One of the Founding Fathers, in the debate on the Constitution of the United States, confessed that "a voluminous code of laws is one of the inconveniences necessarily connected with the advantages of free government." Had he foreseen how voluminous it was to become he would hardly have been satisfied with so mild a word as "inconvenience," for the biennial output, which reaches floodtide in the "odd" years when nearly all the state legislatures are in session, passes understanding. Just now we are observing the efforts of some forty states, including New York, to adjust themselves to more than 13,000 new statutes.

Thirteen thousand plus! The mere size of the printing bill is enough to give every taxpayer pause. The cost in clerical work, committee fees, salary of legislators, test cases in the courts, prosecution and civil litigation is beyond calculation. But, aside from the pressure upon the pocket purse, almost all these laws regulate in some way business conduct or personal deportment and thus irritate nerves of another kind.

Much of this stupendous flood of legal verbiage is mere tinkering with existing codes. Every legislature writes its own Saxon Rescript; it re-patches the patched fabric of the law, if not always dexterously, at least industriously and with gusto. Those who have attended sessions may have heard the clerk droning: "This is an act entitled an act to amend an act entitled an act to amend an act— and so on to the ninth degree of amendment. To attend one of these sessions is a good lesson in what Elihu Root has called organized self-control. The electorate can learn best in the schoolhouse of its state capitals how its representatives function.

Fashions in Laws.

In every legislative gathering laws are offered which affect education, health, banking and railroads. These are familiar standbys. They are the teething rings on which thousands of legislators have cut their first teeth. But there is fashion in laws as in garments and bows; and laws aimed at the motorist are becoming almost passe now that motion pictures may be censored and beauty parlors regulated. Senator Wray of the state of Washington, for instance, is the proud parent of a law authorizing schools for the teaching of the art of kidnapping and child massage, a bill designed to carry out the suggestions of the "Kluge" picture, "The Kidnapping of Edward G. Robinson," which was shown in the state capital last year. The state legislature is also turning its attention to the matter of the "Kluge" picture, which was shown in the state capital last year.

And there is always a crop of measures which may be classed as "oddities." Connecticut debated with spirit a measure intended to impose a tax of $1 on each bachelor, spinster and alien. Taxation of unwedded voters is no new thing, but to jump them with aliens betrays that the author of the law regards them as strange and outlandish. The majority, however, overrode this construction of single blessedness. Iowa, in its zeal for prohibition, adopted a measure intended to prevent the sale of a kind of canned beer, for fear that the alcohol in the device would be diverted to unholy purposes.

Arizona, which is a quiet state, demanded that railroads equip their locomotives with automatic bell-ringers. Among a great many states in which taxes of various sorts were proposed on "cigarettes," Tennessee adopted a sales tax of 10 per cent. Illinois offered a reward of $1,000 to any man, woman or child capturing or killing a bank robber; and Kansas taxed the use—not the sale—of gasoline for any purpose except a farm tractor.

Missouri provided that butcher shops selling both kosher and non-kosher meats should so stipulate in their window signs and advertising; in Ohio passed a law requiring that every public school teacher must read aloud daily ten verses from the Bible without comment. This measure was vetoed by the governor.

Concern about education is invariably acute among our legislators. The ten Biblical verses in Ohio were not alone; in another state a bill was offered providing for the memorizing of the Ten Commandments. There was another bill requiring that study of the Constitution of the United States and of the state should be a prerequisite of graduation, not only from public but private schools.

Laws to Conserve Patriotism.

The battle over the Americanization of history is still raging furiously here and there. In one bill, for instance, it was provided that any school teacher speaking slighting words of the Republic, its founders or the Constitution should be dismissed; and further, that the textbooks on history and civil government should stress adequately the services rendered by the men who achieved our national independence.

Independence . . . and preserved

But there is little of the unusual about such measures. The crop is fairly uniform and varies only in that it tends to get larger and larger as time goes on. The chief ingenuity is exhibited in devising new methods of taxation. The income tax is becoming more and more popular, and there are many states which tax the sale of gasoline, chewing gum and smoking tobacco. Some now have a state automobile fund, to which every owner of a motor vehicle must contribute, wherefrom persons injured in accidents are to receive damages.

It must be remembered that the 12,000 measures mentioned were actually enacted. More than three as many went into the legislative hopper from the hands of earnest legislators. The percentage of enactments was, indeed, without precedent. There are two ways to judge a state legislature: first, by the number of bills introduced; second, by the number which survive committee pitfalls and the gauntlet of debate. New York, for instance, was the Abou Ben Adhem of the states in the number of measures offered, leading with 3,186; but only 696 of them became law, whereas in North Carolina, of only 1,773 offered 1,173 were enacted.

The actual number of bills passed in 36 of these states was 13,016. Texas, perhaps preoccupied with the Ferguson, did not make any return to the National Industrial council, which reported the legislative crop; and Governor Harter of Washington resorted to the unusual expedient of a split session, in order to give the legislature time to think over what they had done at the first gathering. During the first session the Washington legislature adopted but 34 of 123 bills offered.

The National Industrial council was organized in 1907 by the National Association of Manufacturers to oppose the enactment of laws likely to affect business unfavorably. Commenting on the new crop of statutes, M. J. Ricker, assistant secretary of the council, said that "the state legislatures were constantly finding new ways of getting revenue, thus piling up the costs of government and imposing constantly heavier taxes."

Several states adopted the executive budget during the year, and others undertook a reorganization of the executive departments.—New York Times.

Her Ambition

I know a very nice woman, and what do you think her greatest ambition is? . . . I have heard her say this to him. In her own home, a very good looking, and this nice woman jumps to approach him, and says: "Oh, I don't think you are so 4-a good looking."—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

Cite Man Who Lived to 152 in Long-Life Drive

London.—The memory of Thomas Parr, who set England's standard of longevity by living to be 152 years old, is being invoked in a campaign by the Long Life society in favor of simple living. The object lesson, however, is found as much in the cause of his death as in the matter of his living.

"Old Parr" lived under ten English monarchs, from 1483 to 1635, and the authenticity of the record is attested by a slab in Westminster abbey, where England's great are remembered.

Until nearly the end of his life he lived on the simplest fare, whole-grain bread, milk, cheese and fruit, and at 120 he was hale enough to marry a second time. But when he reached 132 his fame reached the ears of King Charles I, who invited him to London and feasted him so that he died.

His slab in Westminster is cited by the Long Life society "as a warning to those who suddenly and drastically alter the habits of a lifetime."

Polar Flyers to Study Bird Flight Mystery

New York.—Solution of an Arctic riddle that has fascinated explorers since first they began penetrating the polar regions will be sought by Capt. George R. Wilkins and his companions on their proposed 1,800-mile non-stop flight next spring over the top of the world.

The riddle, briefly, has been: "Where do the birds go when they keep on going north?"

Belief that land must exist somewhere beyond the farthest point reached by man exists, and Capt. Wilkins will fly next year in an attempt to go from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitzbergen. If land is discovered it will be claimed in the name of the United States.

The Detroit Aviation society, of which Henry Ford's chief engineer is president, is backing the expedition with the American Geographical society, Government aid, and the use of Lieutenants John A. Macready and James H. Doolittle, crack army aviators, has been asked.

Mirrors for Macaroni

By using mirrors to supplement the sun in drying macaroni, manufacturers of the product have found the color to be more satisfactorily preserved, since the deep yellow that is not bleached so easily, and the flavor also is said to be improved. The process is quicker than sun bleaching.

Great Statesman Exiled

Buenos Aires.—The great Argentine statesman, who is considered by many as second in both Americas only to Washington, after serving his country in many important positions, spent the last years of his life in exile in Spain.

Movement, the new feeling of dash and freedom; the spirit of airy grace and flowing lines—all that the word kinetic expressed is to be found in the world of dress. This newest and most important of fashion's changes is easily achieved in ruffled, draped and fly-away designs. But to express it in form requires the utmost and the most masterly skill, says a fashion writer in the Philadelphia Record.

However, it has been done, and done delightfully. Often the development of the pet is all that is needed to bring out this new theme. This is particularly true of silk. Its beautifully bleached colorings are so worked that a feeling of movement is artistically expressed, even when the straight-line models are used. Furs, as a whole, are still slender. but these are shown with reserve so that the silhouette is never allowed to assume bulky proportions. Mink is Aristocratic.

A Paris model of finest selected mink pelts, with all the richly aristocratic appearance of the real mink, is a wonderful symphony in brown tones. Godets, cleverly and effectively placed, call attention to the kinetic theme, yet so great is the skill with which they are applied that the garment is as stately as if it were made of fur. This is not a fur in only one instance of the pelts of Paris, who has given us several models of this type. A roll of fur shows the pelt worked in an opposite way with a puffed effect which is very becoming. The same arrangement is shown on the lower part of the sleeve, which gains distinction by not having cuffs.

Mink is extremely smart this season, both for matron and maid. It is always elegant, in the best of taste and since the kinetic idea is being featured, it is decidedly youthful. The unusual model has a high-standing collar drawn through a self loop at the front. But as a rule, collars are of the shawl type, generously deep, with one end coming down to a point, which sometimes reaches to the beginning of the front fare.

A very new model, which is a surprise because it made its appearance so suddenly, and after we thought everything had been decided, in ultra smart and has the chic of Paris in every line. It is a platinum moire crepe with a collar of finest Russian squirrel with that blue tint which is so ravishingly lovely. This follows an entirely new line, quite different from anything we have had. One end is brought down the right side, caught under a flap of the crepe at the waistline and drawn out in a dashing flare to the hem.

It is a stunning adaptation of the fur model which so many fashionable members of the younger set are wearing. Another instance is shown in softest Siberian squirrel, always so feminine, and so charming. It is trimmed with platinum fur, in collar and tuxedo collar, one side of which reaches the hem. Worn with it is a little hat of the new Paris crepe velvet, becomingly rolled off the face and enriched with a rhinestone pin. With such an outfit any deb is ready for a season of conquests and will be certain to leave a trail of broken hearts behind her.

The New Fur Model

The woman who the designer of the new fur model really was. A number of Paris houses claim it. And it is certainly amazingly popular. It has even appeared in French, or perhaps that was where it originated, who knows? A very smart Philadelphia matron is wearing it in platinum gray fur coat with the trimming in squirrel. And a novel stage favorite featured it in such the same material, only she chooses cream crepe with black and the "tuxedo".

There is something so very delightful in the way of showing one's acquaintance with the kinetic theme. With every coat of the winter and even if she can't stop at all, but cannot stand by passively, this idea has given the theme of elegance and movement.

There has been such a craze for mink and other animal skins that the fur trade is doing better than ever. It is no longer smart to wear it in, and really so. But one can buy two raccoons for the price of one leopard. And naturally one always sees more of the less expensive garments. There is no denying the distinction of leopard and it will never lose its roguish any more than Hudson seal or ermine.

Rich Glorious Colorings

They are even showing leopard cat and angora leopard this season in an effort to keep up with the demand for this striking pelt. But there is nothing to compare in rich, glorious colorings with African baby leopard. Its tawny shadings and beautiful markings make it a fur which will never lose its appeal.

A delightfully kinetic flare is formed on a stunning leopard model by a border of selected natural fitch which comes up in a point at the front. The fitch is also used for flare cuffs and for a collar which follows a modified one-side trimming idea and rolls in a deep point to meet the flare. Such a coat is the last word, is chic and is something to gladden the heart of any deb or young matron. It may be worn with a tailored felt of periwinkle blue or a draped turban of Lancia green. If for daytime wear. But leopard and coats of this type are so wonderfully handsome that they go very smartly to evening affairs. And then one might choose a gold lace poke if something more elaborate than felt is desired.

Funny, isn't it, how fashions go everywhere? Remember what a short time ago it was that a felt hat was considered proper only for business and school wear? And now they go to the most stately affairs. And did you read about the furore they had in London recently because girls remove their felt hats from their bunched heads as they enter a restaurant, exactly as their men friends do? And they tuck them nonchalantly under their arms as they proceed tableward. Fashions have been doing this for some time and it didn't create any excitement at all. But then, we have grown accustomed to thinking of Paris as the place of strange happenings.

Beaver and Leopard

Beaver is also a very pleasing accompaniment of leopard. It comes in wonderfully with the golden brown-red. By the way, have you noticed how especially becoming leopard is to a red-headed girl? What a play every girl with Tilden locks can't have one. A model which is attracting much attention is of African baby leopard trimmed with golden Alaska beaver which is so much handsomer and stiffer than any other beaver could possibly be. A deep collar cutting in a point to the border which is drawn nearly up at one side, both cuffs and the wide border of this enchanting fur make this coat a thing of everlasting beauty.

Heins, who has created so many handsome models this winter, reverses the usual process and uses leopard for a trimming fur. It appears on a coat of natural tortois, as a narrow collar, coming down in a point on one side to meet the border which is much

The outstanding model of Bechtel's collection is a cream American broadtail, which is an immensely popular pelt this season. It is featured in a number of coats shown for the winter, which must use it for both dress and business wear. And come seems to be a high favorite in colors. It comes in with almost any other shade but, other than anything, perhaps, except black. And black is noticeable by its absence this season. With the exception of the seals, both Hudson and Alaska, there is little black. And even women who formerly clung tenaciously to Hudson seal, have now decided upon the more youthful cream or platinum shades.

Panama City Has Much to Interest Tourists

Although Panama is one of the most ancient cities in the New world, it is to the United States that it owes much of its present prestige and wealth. After the fall of the Incas, the great stores of gold and other wealth of the old city were looted by pirates and the decline of Spanish sea power Panama went into a partial eclipse. Panama perpetuates one of the greatest of geographic jokes on the world. It is from the sea wall promenade one can see the sun rise majestically from the broad blue bosom of the Pacific, which to most Americans is the proper place only for setting sun. And when one sails from Panama city to Colon, the Atlantic terminal of the canal, the direction is from southeast to northwest, instead of from west to east, as might reasonably be expected.

Although the present city of Panama dates from the seventeenth century, it is considered historically a new city to distinguish it from old Panama, now in ruins, a few miles to the east. Old Panama was entirely destroyed by the notorious pirate, Henry Morgan.—National Geographic Society Bulletin.

Ocean's Waters Teem With Dangerous Fish

A fish that has a very bad name in West Indian waters is the barracouta. It is shaped like a torpedo and is blue-black above and gray below. It is feared by negroes more than the shark. A girl swimmer not long ago was killed by one of these creatures. What is probably the most dangerous of all fish is, however, the piral, common in South American rivers, especially in tributaries of the Orinoco. It is not large, but it travels in shoals and has fearful teeth and a passion for blood.

A fish called the broad-gut and found in the seas off Central America, has the queer habit of jumping from water and alighting like a flying fish at great speed. It has a long, sharp snout. There are several cases of these fish having pierced the sails of sailing boats exactly as if pierced by a large arrow. Their long snouts are very firm and sharp. Some years ago a boy, while fishing off Oros Caga, was killed by a broad-gut which struck him in the chest.

Communists and Cakes
Communist newspapers comment humorously on the predicament of an unfortunate member of the party. This Communist's wife asked to bake the usual cake for a church holiday. He explained that as he did not observe such days a cake was unnecessary. The wife insisted, and he finally agreed that the cake be baked, but specified that it be different in shape from the ordinary. The wife replied that a cake of any other shape would be foolish and began to cry. The Communist became angry, declared that he was the head of the family and forbade his wife to bake the cake. Then he recalled that in a Communist family husband and wife are equal, and that he could not give orders. So, ask some Communist writers, what can a local Communist do if he wants peace at home, especially if he likes cake?

Hold-Up and a Runaway

"It was before the time of automobiles," writes C. C. S., relating a reminiscence in Capper's Weekly. "I was driving a span of moustangs that had been trained to start at the lifting of a hand instead of the usual 'tidlop.' I was returning from a neighboring town through a stretch of woods when two men appeared on each side of the road and ordered me to 'kick 'em up.' I responded instantly, so did the ponies. As my hands shot up, the team sprang forward and before the robbers could get into action we were going lickety-split over the corduroy road. The ponies ran nearly a mile before I could get hold of the lines and get them under control. Bandits was not so uncommon even in the old days."

Loons Not Lemmings

To most of us the expression "crazy as a loon" is quite familiar, but loons are not lemmings and so far as we know they never become insane. There are three species of loons in northeastern North America: the black-throated, the red-throated and the great northern diver which is called plain loon.

Their call is of loud, clear, quavering tones rising through a number of notes—"a sort of wailing laughter." It may be compared to "wah-hoo-a." Heard on a dark night in the stillness of the North woods it not only startles but alarms. The expression "crazy as a loon" undoubtedly has its origin in the nocturnal laugh of this bird.

Today's Story in New York History

By Frederic A. Goodrich.
(Copyright, 1925, by the Author)

Colonel Benjamin Fletcher arrived in New York city Monday, August 23, 1692, and was received as the Governor of the Province amid the acclamations of the people, and a great procession.

Fletcher was by profession a soldier, a man of strong passions, feeble talents, aristocratic in his tendencies, opposed to all popular concessions, adverse to religious toleration, and very avaricious.

Fortunately for his subsequent conduct of Indian affairs, Fletcher early made the acquaintance of Major Peter Schuyler of Albany, who had succeeded to the influence which Arendt Van Corlaer, once exercised over the Iroquois, and from whom the English governors were subsequently entitled "Corlaer" by the Indians. Major Schuyler, or "Quidder," as the Mohawk called him—for they could not pronounce this Christian name of Peter—was a brave, active, intelligent and humane man; and his unbounded authority over the wild tribes on the frontier rendered him eminently serviceable to the governor, who judiciously appointed him one of his council.

Major Schuyler so guided the conduct of the governor that he saved him from becoming intolerably obnoxious to the people. During the whole of his administration of seven years party rancor, kindled by the judicial death of Laisler, burned intensely, and at one time menaced the province with civil war. Fletcher adopted the views of the anti-Laislerians, and became their supple instrument.

During the period that Fletcher was reorganizing his government, Count Frontenac, Governor General of Canada, was busily preparing for an expedition against the Five Nations.

Frontenac began his march and on February 5, 1693 passed Schenectady, and entered the first fortified Mohawk village the same night, captured five men, and a few women and children. He captured a second village which was deserted; but at the third, about forty Indians were surprised during a war dance, and in the ensuing battle the French were victorious, but lost forty troops. Frontenac turned toward Canada with 300 captives.

When the news reached the Mohawk at Schenectady they called upon the inhabitants for assistance, but the people were timid, not so Major Schuyler. He hastened to the relief of his friends, at the head of 200 men. Being reinforced by 300 Mohawks on February 15, he started in pursuit of the foe.

On the 17th Schuyler came up with the rear guard of the French and a series of skirmishes were fought. Two days later, provisions having arrived, and about eighty regular soldiers, he resumed the pursuit, but the enemy had taken advantage of the delay, and pushing through a driving snow storm reached the north branch of the Hudson. Schuyler returned to Albany, after having retaken about fifty of the captives.

The activity of Governor Fletcher on the occasion gave him great credit with the Five Nations. He headed 300 volunteers, landed at Albany, 160 miles away in five days, was too late to be of any service, but his boldness gratified the Indians. They bestowed upon him the name of "Cattagoussa," or "Lord of the Swift Arrow."

Reinforcements of troops and munitions of war reached Canada from France, the Onondaga used for peace, and even the faithful Mohawk wavered.

To prevent other nations of the Iroquois from submitting to the energetic Frontenac, Fletcher met the chief of the Five Nations in council at Albany, beginning June 23 and continuing until July 6, during which he effected important treaties.

Upon Fletcher's return to New York the Common Council issued an address of congratulations and ordered that a cup of gold to the value of $100 be "presented into his Excellency on behalf of the city, as a token of their gratitude."

Perhaps the most important events during Governor Fletcher's administration were the founding of Trinity Church and the erection of a printing press.

Fletcher had direct and indirect connection with the pirates, who had a long time flourished in the colonies, especially in New York and Rhode Island. It was the logical outcome of a system of privateering which the adopted nations of that period had adopted as a legitimate arm of war. Many were unable to resist the temptation to take and plunder indiscriminately, and thus became pirates of full import.

This guild flourished in New York under Fletcher as never before. Merchants connived at it, and not a few profited by it. Enormous fortunes were made and lost in the nefarious traffic. Governor Fletcher often entertained at his own table some of these adventurers, and his caution used the occasion to effect his recall.

They charged that Fletcher consorted with pirates, that he gave them commissions knowing them to be such, that he sold them protection and pocketed the money. The feeling was so intense that the king decided to recall Fletcher and appoint Richard, Earl of Bellomont, which he did June 18, 1697.

MAKING CONVALESCENCE SAFE.

There is always the conflict between physicians as to the wisdom of getting sick people on their feet after an acute illness.

One quite properly suggests that when the acute illness is past, the patient only becomes weak by remaining in bed. That if you can get him roused up, get him to walk about the room with the windows open, you'll create a genuine appetite, and he'll soon be all right again. The other points out that to make him get up before he is ready, is to take a chance on causing a relapse, as his heart will not be at full strength, and he will overtax it.

In some parts of Europe, patients recovering from acute illness or from operations, are taken outdoors and given some graded exercises, so as to build them up before they return to their homes.

However, a new instrument is now in the hands of physicians which makes it possible to decide on this question of just when to get the patient up on his feet.

This machine registers the amount of work the body is actually doing when it is at complete rest, and no food is being digested. There is what is known as the normal amount of work for a body of a certain size and weight. If it is doing more than this, while at rest, then something is wrong in the body, and the body processes are working a little harder to keep up with the trouble that is going on. He should rest quietly so as to give them a better chance to work.

If the body is doing less work than normal, then the strength should be conserved until his body processes are able to do the normal amount of work. This means that the individual should remain quietly in bed until this time.

Now it so happens that some bodies will return to their normal working in two days, whereas others will be two weeks in doing so, after the same kind of illness.

You can readily see that an instrument of this kind is not only going to save time in many cases, where the physician might be overcautious, and also prevent any relapse where the physician might want to get the patient on his feet too soon. They will wait until it is doing its "normal" work.

There really will not be any chance for much difference of opinion once these machines come into general use.

LEGAL AID FOR THE POOR.

The adequate defense of persons accused before the courts requires money, and this need was the origin of that worthy benefactor of the poor on trial, the Legal Aid Society, which aims to supply counsel for the man who can not afford to secure it for himself. Hitherto the society has confined its services to persons, mostly of foreign birth, involved in criminal cases. This was in order to meet the most pressing claim upon its attention, but there is similar need of help in civil cases, and, lacking it, the poor are left with a bitter sense of inequality with the rich before the law, this readily taking the form among the foreign-born of contempt for boasted American freedom and equality. It is good news that now by a provision of an additional fund of $150,000 the income may be applied to civil as well as criminal cases, though with so modest an endowment it can be only a step in the right direction.

In connection with this work it has been well said that "the first duty of society to the poor is not to give them charity but to secure them justice," and without adequate defense in the courts the poor will fail of full justice. This is a defect in our legal administration for which one would expect a wise and humane government to provide a remedy. The inadequately financed Legal Aid Society has been trying to do what government does not do and is attempting to handle some 50,000 cases annually. Few institutions so fully deserve the substantial support of public spirited and truly patriotic citizens.

The Treasury Department estimates that there are 8,000 misers in America, who keep their hoardings merely to gloat over them. The estimate is that $400,000,000 in cash is hidden away in mattresses, holes in the wall, in socks, in various clever or foolish places, instead of being deposited in safe banks. Money hidden away and not used is essentially dead. Much of it is destroyed in fires, by rats, by the death and forgetfulness of the holders. It is an utterly foolish thing to do—to slave away to earn money, putting one's lifeblood into it, and then lay it away to mould or to be stolen or lost. The only money worth having is the money at work.

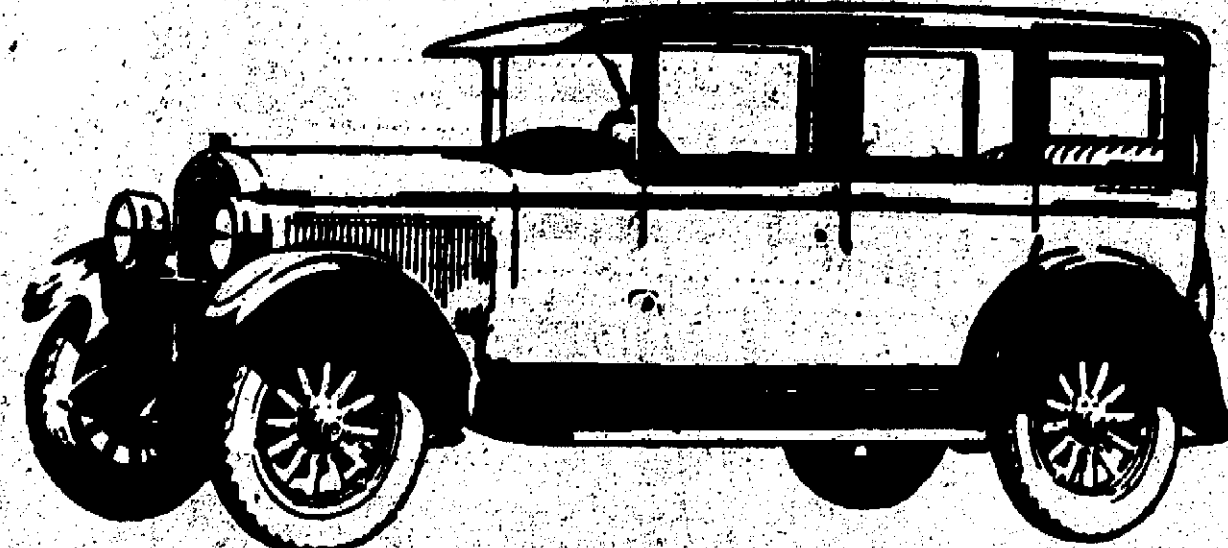

In the city of Visalia, California, there is an asphaltic concrete type of pavement, laid in 1894, which has cost nothing for maintenance and is now in excellent condition. Millions of yards of this type have been laid on the Pacific Coast and while it has not been as extensively used in the East, remarkable results have been obtained where it has been laid. In Erie, Pennsylvania, a section which had been down over thirty years, and which was in good condition, was recently taken up on account of changes in underground service roads that last are a necessity for the taxpayers.

Certain young college women are reported to have decided, after discussion, that the gentleman of past times is extinct and the courtesy distinguishing him is a lost art. They complain not only of the manners of the young man who sits while women stand but of the modern youth who whistles to his "girl" or hoots from his auto for her to come out to him. Manifestly there has been a great change, but it looks as if the free-and-easy girl of the period and the "equal rights" woman campaigner are as much responsible for it as the "new" young man himself.

William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, sends a statement to the American press, that in his opinion we have entered upon an era of goodwill in the relation of labor and capital. During the past year great progress was made in learning how these great forces of society can live together; and organized labor, in his opinion, sees in the new year a hopeful outlook for industry. Mr. Green does not cite the cause of an illustration of progress in good will.

WARN POLICE WHEN DRIVER IS SPEEDING

Lieut. Martin Noonan of the bureau of public safety, police department, demonstrating the officers' protective speed control. This device is connected with car gears. When going at city limit speed a green light is lit. When car moves faster, a red light appears and a horn connected blows continually. Flag shown in photo graph denotes that the car is traveling at city limit speed; when turned on green the car is traveling beyond that speed.

IMAGINATION IS AID TO DRIVER

All Sorts of Dangers Flash Before Him Which He Carefully Avoids.

"The man with imagination will have fewer accidents than the man without this quality," says Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club. "The motorist who can put himself in the place of the other driver will anticipate much trouble. The man with imagination will realize that the child at play on the sidewalk may suddenly decide to chase a ball out on to the street. He imagines all the possible dangerous situations that may arise. On a hill he knows that another car may be coasting over the crown, and consequently he does not attempt to pass cars going in the same direction. He knows that a fast-moving car may be hidden from view behind some curve on a lonely country highway. His imagination builds rather pessimistic opinions of the ability of other drivers and of pedestrians, but this attitude is a safe one, if not a complimentary one, to the rest of mankind."

Demand Wide Margin of Safety.

"The pessimistic attitude makes for an awareness in driving that counteracts to lapse into automatic driving. The car is guided automatically, but the driver does not allow his subconscious mind to rule the wheel. He is aware of all that happens. He is prepared for unusual conditions and his pessimistic attitude makes him demand a wide margin of safety. The reverse of this attitude is seen in the actions of the optimistic driver who never has had an accident, and who thinks that if accidents are to happen they will come to the other fellow. This driver takes no account of unusual conditions. A rainy or snowy night will find him driving as fast as he would drive on a pleasant afternoon with a clear sky and unobstructed streets. The imaginative driver does not depend upon his horn. He knows that his brakes are more effective. He slows down when he sees a group of pedestrians, and he gives them the horn when he is several hundred feet away from them, which gives them sufficient time to act. But he slows down and if they do the unexpected he is prepared. Education is needed."

"Laws and regulations will not instill this habit of caution into the minds of the motorists. Examinations will not weed out those lacking in imagination. If a man thinks that he is a specially favored darling of fortune so that he is in store for him unless he deliberately changes his mental attitude. It is changed attitude can be accomplished only by education."

Simple Little Trick to Make Rim Fit on Wheel

When a rim with tire is mounted on the wheel, it often happens that the rim cannot be moved into place remaining partly on and partly off. Slight sagging of the rim is all that is needed and this may be done by placing the head of a jack against the hub of the wheel, and the base of the jack on the protruding portion of the rim. Thus sprung a little, a hammer blow will slide the rim over the edge of the wheel. In most cases of this kind, the more operation of the jack will force the rim over the wheel.

Tip Offered on Driving to Lower Repair Bills

When a car that is rolling along at a good 25 miles an hour strikes a pothole or a bad bump, every vital and moving part of the motor and mechanism receives the impact of a blow of steel or iron in force. Not fully realizing this, many drivers continue to go after they have driven over a bump, and during their care to avoid punishment when by simply avoiding the bad spots much trouble might be saved. If a car were to be driven in a pothole or a bump, it would stand up longer and require little wear.

Underinflation Blamed for Much Tire Trouble

Seventy-five per cent of the motorists' tire trouble, it is estimated, is due either directly or indirectly, to underinflation. When it comes to underinflation, don't guess. Use a gauge. It is only a matter of a moment's work, but it means dollars saved in tire.

When not properly inflated tires readily rim out. Particularly is this true over rough places, where the rim chafes and bruises the fabric. Underinflation also means an unequal tension in the fabric piles making up the carcass, which results in chafing, fabric separation and ultimately in a blow-out.

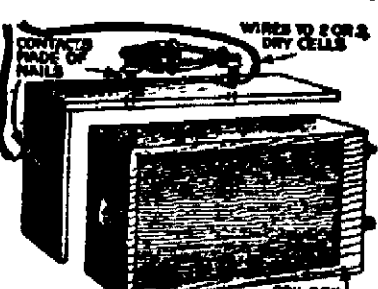

While it is quite true that an under-inflated tire is more elastic and more resilient, the motorist pays dearly for this. Loaded, the underinflated tire, by reason of increased hinging action near the rim and at a sharp angle, is often more or less devulcanized or softened by the resultant heat.

It pays big dividends, in freedom from tire trouble, to rigidly observe the inflation pressure recommended by the manufacturer. It is so simple a matter, requiring only a moment, but the motorist has no one but himself to blame when he neglects to test his tire pressure with a gauge.

If the motorist wishes to obtain the maximum mileage built into a tire he should pay heed to this timely warning against underinflation, according to the tire men. Inflation is the first cardinal principle of tire conservation. If you do not have a tire gauge, purchase one today. Even after trouble has begun prompt action in taking an injured casing to a tire surgeon for repair or the use of a tire gauge will greatly prolong the life of the casing.

Good Strong Spark Very Necessary in Winter

In cold weather a good strong spark is necessary. To insure having one, the tester illustrated is valuable. Use it either with dry cells or storage battery while adjusting the vibrator to give a high-pitched buzz and regulate the spark-plug gaps until the strongest possible spark is given. I find this apparatus of help in winter and summer.—Clyde E. Volkers, in Popular Science Monthly.

False Economy to Save Moment by Fast Driving

It is false economy to try to save a moment by reckless speeding. The attempt may result in a smash which will lay the driver up for several months and the car for several days. If death itself is not the price, reckless driving is not a demonstration of skill, but an illusion of foolishness.

Hurrying to get ahead of a train, a street car or another vehicle saves only a moment or two at the ultimate destination and the gain is not worth the grave danger of paying the price of a serious and perhaps fatal accident.

There are certain safety rules of the road which the careful driver observes and these precautions should always be carried out. Slow up for all turns in the road. Blind corners are dangerous. When it is impossible to see what is coming around the corner it is well to be prepared to stop.

Easy Backing

Some drivers never do learn how to back into a small space. If the driver who has trouble in parking will set his front wheels perfectly straight, and then cut a notch in the steering wheel directly in front of the driver's position, he will ever afterward be able to back in without any trouble.

POULTRY

DIVIDE HEN FLOCK FOR BEST RESULTS

Separate pullets from hens, say poultrymen from the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca. Old or hens are apt, if allowed, to keep the pullets from their feed and boss them around so that they do not get a fair chance to develop as they should. Separation also lessens the risk from disease spread.

Skim milk is one of the biggest known aids to egg production, and should be used to the limit. Every pullet should always have all the milk, sour or sweet, that she can drink. Cleanliness is a big factor in raising poultry successfully, and the village poultrymen suggest not only washing the milk dish every time before use but also cleaning the roosts, the floors, and the self feeders frequently. Some men clean the dropping boards every day, but this is not the latest necessary.

With plenty of milk, the hens do not need so much water, and a few farmers claim better results when no water at all is given if the hens always have access to milk. The milk gives them out only water, but also much-needed proteins and minerals.

Whole cabbages hung in the scratch pots make fine green feed, but other greenstuffs are also good. It is a common mistake to throw away large quantities of green refuse on the floor where it is apt to be wasted by getting moldy and dirty.

For the mash which pullets should always have before them, equal parts of bran, middlings yellow corn meal, ground heavy oats, and beef scraps generally give the best results. If the chickens have all the milk they can drink, the meat scrap allowance can be cut in two. The house itself should be dry and well-ventilated. Every poultryman knows the importance of keeping his stock free from lice and mites. Litter in the scratch pens should not be too deep at first, as the pullets do not know how to scratch deep yet. Yellow cracked corn is as good a scratch feed as any one needs, but one-third of any other wholesome grain can also be added.

Add to these aids and precautions a good culling program, say the state college men, and any poultryman should be able to get both pleasure and profit from handling his flock.

The little things count in egg production, they say. They believe these practices, if followed, will increase noticeably the production of every hen in the state. They are not, of course, in favor of a greater total production of eggs, but less hens and more eggs is the combination that means money in the poultryman's pocket.

Select Best Layers by

Use of Good Trap Nest

A good trap nest provides the one accurate method of determining exactly how many eggs a hen has laid in one year. There is no short cut or easy way to figure from part of a year's trap-nest record what the total for the year will be, nor to cull carefully enough to estimate what it has been or will be, say poultry specialists at the Kansas State Agricultural college.

The highest type of breeding for egg production may be secured only by trap-nesting every breeder throughout every day of her first laying year, and every day throughout the breeding season, as long as she is kept. In addition, both male and female birds must be selected which have the ability to transmit high production to their offspring.

The best poultry breeders are searching for the pullet that lays not only during the spring, but is also an early maturer and heavy winter layer as well as a persistent summer layer. These characteristics, coupled with intensity of production, are found only in the best hens, the poultrymen claim.

Care of Breeding Stock

Is of Great Importance

Apparently much of the trouble we have each year with poor incubator results is traceable to the condition in which the breeding stock has been in for several months previous. A study of the results which some of our hatcheries are obtaining with eggs from different flocks hatched in the same machine indicates the great importance of this factor.

The hens should have plenty of grain in addition to the regular laying mash. Five per cent of linseed oil meal may be put in the mash to help the late molters in re feathering. Green feed is particularly important to breeders. Do not use lights on the breeding stock—O. C. Krum, Poultry Extension Specialist, Colorado Agricultural College.

Cause of Diseases

Most farm poultry houses lack effective means of removing moisture and impure air. Accumulated moisture in the poultry house and an overcrowded condition are directly responsible for the colds and roup which weaken the vitality of the birds, causing them to easily succumb to other diseases. To remedy this, use the open-front type of house, which has become universally adopted, and allow at least three square feet of floor space per bird.

Why Prof. Dumm Favors Scouting

During the last decade that I have been more or less actively identified with Scouting, my interests in the movement have changed somewhat in viewpoint. At first I was strongly attracted by the spectacular features such as the uniform, insignia and various public appearances which attract many.

As I have become better acquainted with the work and have had numerous opportunities to see results of a more permanent nature, I am more and more impressed with the permanent educational value of the program. Such values are not at once apparent to their fullest extent but require a generation to yield the greatest dividends.

When we speak of educational values, we mean something more than that found in the mere informational type of mind—the mind that seeks to become a walking encyclopedia—we mean a mentality that is able rather to do as well as know. We include such educational values as self-reliance, initiative, honesty, loyalty, cooperation, virility, ambition, altruism, law observance, patriotism, morality, leadership, vocational guidance, reverence and many other essential traits of a well-rounded character.

Among the numerous educators of the country who hold Scouting in high regard for its educational value is Dean J. E. Russell, of Teachers College, Columbia University. He says in part: "It (Scouting) has a serious potency for converting the restless, irresponsible, self-centered boy into the straight forward, dependable, helpful young citizen."

Ex-President Elliott, of Harvard, says that the supervised boys' camp is the greatest contribution that this country has yet made to the world's educational progress. As most people know, supervised camping is one of the foundation stones of Scouting. Perhaps no movement in America has done so much to popularize camping among boys as the Boy Scout movement has during the last sixteen years.

We should not attempt to appraise the value of Scouting for the adolescent boy in even a superficial way until we have looked further into the wonderful possibilities of the whole outdoor life of the real Scout. He learns by doing—by doing for himself. He acquires habits of self-reliance, initiative and resourcefulness which cannot be imparted in any other way. If he is inclined to be selfish and egotistic he can transform himself into a more positive and cooperative nature. He learns team play and cooperation. And if he possesses any of the latent qualities of leadership he is given an opportunity to work these out to their fullest expression.

The real outdoor Scout gets many chances to see life more in its true relationship. He finds out that there are things worth valuing to know that the latest brand of civilization, the recent movie star, and the most up-to-date jazz singer.

Matter of Precedence

David Belasco was telling stories of the old stock company days. "A manager," he said "was moving his company on the cheap. They traveled from town to town in freight cars at freight rates."

"Well, they pulled up at a junction one Sunday morning, and the junction boss came out and bawled to the conductor of the freight:—'What ye carryin', Jim?—'Oh, manure and actors,' Jim bawled back."

"Then the heavy tragedian stuck his head out of a cattle car and thundered:—'Godzniks, fellow, you might have put the actors first.'"

Talk

Dr. Harry E. Kirk of Baltimore, who has declined a call to the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, the richest church in the world, was talking about talkers.

"Great talkers are always great bores," he said. "Look at Coleridge born at Barnard Shaw. 'Shew's a magnificent talker isn't he?' one man said to another. 'The most magnificent,' said the other. 'I ever escaped from.'—'Detrol Free Press."

Good Looks

The road is the way to receive and like good to retain the channels in which we allow our thoughts to run. It isn't altogether what a woman does or says as the days and years go by that affects her appearance. It is the feelings and emotions which her eyes and words in daily reaction to people and things, which work themselves upon her face and reflect in her personality.

Contentment Needed

A little less grumbling about what we haven't got, and a little more appreciation of what we have got will make a wonderful difference in our disposition. So on this day, when we are so well off as the average man.

150 YEARS AGO

The Origin of the U. S. A.
By Jonathan A. Rawson, Jr.

NEW YORK FOR SAFETY FIRST.

New York City awoke on the morning of February 5, 1778, somewhat reassured that it was not to be at once removed from the map either by the Continental soldiers or by the British soldiers and sailors who had arrived on the previous day, but not entirely reassured. The Britishers might promise as much as they pleased that they intended no harm, but for how long was the promise to hold good? General Charles Lee, Washington's representative on the spot, said that it would not hold good very long. He proceeded with much vigor to prepare New York for the worst.

First, he said, there must be fortifications along the water front of Manhattan Island and in Brooklyn. Volunteers were called for, and the response was immediate. While the soldiers patrolled the streets and the river front, patriot boys and men threw up breastworks. One battery was erected west of Trinity Church near the present Greenwich street, facing the North River and another at the foot of Wall street had 40 guns to challenge the passage of British ships up the East River. North and East Rivers were wider then than now, and Manhattan Island was narrower, and these batteries were 100 yards or so back of the present water fronts. To prevent enemy ships from attacking the city from Long Island Sound, fortifications were erected near Hell Gate. In Brooklyn a camp site was laid out between Gowanus and Wallabout Bays, on the Brooklyn Heights of today.

Doubleless these warlike preparations with their accompanying display of armed military forces had one motive in addition to that of being ready for a British attack. Perhaps a large part in their purpose was to impress the troublesome Tories and discourage their activities. In fact, Lee, during his three days in New York, gave almost as much thought to the Tories as to the enemies from overseas. He ordered that certain Tory suspects must sign an oath of allegiance to the patriot cause or be sent to Connecticut as prisoners. While he took unto himself a little more authority than was really his and much more than the New Yorkers felt that he should take, since he was not of their society, his pompous military ways and the high sounding phrases of his proclamations made a strong impression both on the patriots and on their Tory foes.

HIGHLAND C. E.
CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY.

The Christian Endeavor of Highland Presbyterian Church celebrated C. E. week by attending a "radio meeting" on January 31 at the home of Mrs. W. T. Rivenburg to "Meten In" when "Dan Poling" broadcast. Every word came in clearly and all were delighted. A letter was written to him signed by the twenty-four members present. Wednesday evening several members attended the county rally and banquet in Kingston. Thursday evening, led by the president, Hope Persons, they conducted the mid-week prayer service. On Friday a C. E. banquet will take place in the church hall for all members of the C. E. The speaker for the banquet will be the Rev. Mr. Craig from Newburgh. Sunday evening, February 7, at 7:30, in the church auditorium, the society will give the pleasant "Youths' Response," making a fitting close to C. E. week, celebrating the 45th anniversary of the founding of Christian Endeavor. To the state convention at Saratoga Springs from July 1 to 5, Highland hopes to send a large delegation.

UNION CENTER.
Union Center, Feb. 5.—Mrs. F. Proper was given a surprise party at her home last Saturday evening in honor of her birthday. Games of all kinds were played and refreshments served, including a fine birthday cake.

Mrs. O. Coutant, Marion Coutant and Alice Olin attended the Y. W. service at St. James's M. E. Church last Sunday afternoon and heard Miss Margaret Slattery speak.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Coutant celebrated the 52nd anniversary of their marriage last Friday.

The topic for the C. E. meeting Sunday evening will be "What Does Christian Endeavor Mean to Me?" Matt. 20:25-28. Leader, Allan Coutant. All are welcome.

Meet me at the Masquerade Ball February 8, at State Armory. Music by Malsenholder's orchestra. Advertisement.

RADIO

Action, Stability
in Five-Tube Set

Receiver Using Basket-Weave Coil Mounted Behind Condensers.

By CAPT. P. V. O'ROURKE, in Radio World.

The standard five-tube tuned RF set is shown in the diagram. The receiver uses basket-weave coils that are mounted behind the tuning condensers. This introduces an action in the circuit which tends toward stability. Unless this were done the tubes on the radio side would be uncontrollable.

As a further check upon disastrous action by the radio amplifying tubes the rheostat controlling the two RF tubes may be varied. The greater the resistance of the rheostat in the circuit, the less brightly the tube burns and the less oscillation.

Fits On a 7 by 18 inch Panel.

The set may be constructed on a 7 by 18 inch panel. A convenient method of assembly is to use a socket shelf. There is just enough room for the side behind the condensers. Angle nuts are used to secure the coils to the socket shelf. Although called nuts, they are most commonly brass. A tubing is inserted through one of the apertures caused by the method of winding a basket-weave coil. This aperture formerly was occupied by a steel stick or other rod of the winding form. Inside this tubing a long machine screw is placed, with thread toward the condenser, so that a nut may be affixed at that end, to clamp the screw down upon the brass angle. The other end of the angle is affixed to the socket shelf. Usually one angle, bent like an L, with a short horizontal plane at the base, is sufficient for each coil.

The Coils.

The inductances are alike in construction. The primaries have eight turns and the secondaries have 50 turns. The wire is No. 24, enameled silk covered. The form diameter is three and one-half inches. Usually there are 15 rods on which the wire is wound, these constituting the form.

The secondary is wound for 24 turns then the primary wire is picked up and wound along with it, side by side, for eight turns. The primary winding being terminated then, the rest of the secondary (36 more turns) is put on. The small primary is used as a further aid in obtaining a receiver that will not cause troublesome oscillations.

The set made under these dimensions will tune approximately in one inch factor that tends to operate against this in the added capacity in the first radio transformer, L12, due to the aerial-ground system.

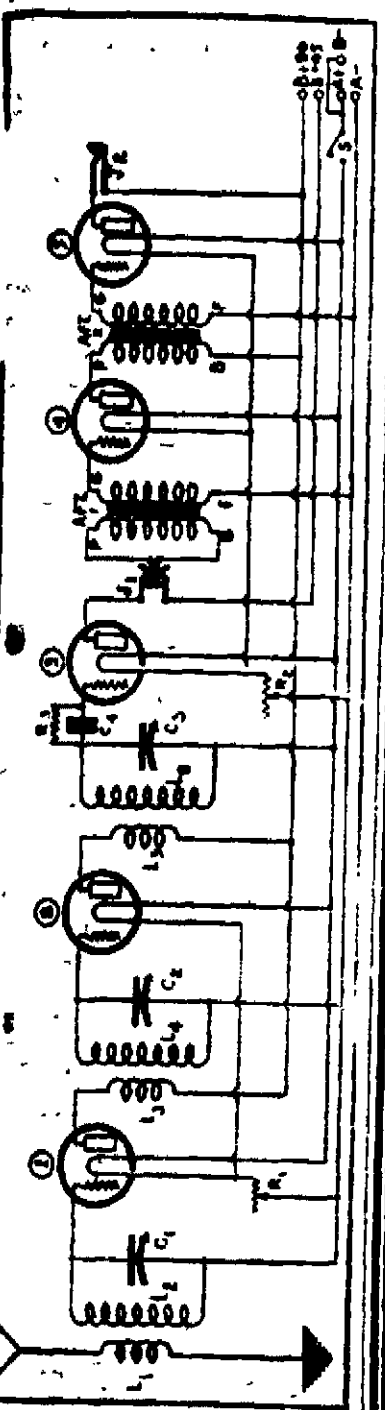

These C1 might tune with radials a little lower than those of the other condensers. To get away from this four turns may be removed from the secondary of the first radio transformer, or, in the actual winding, the number of turns might be made a few fewer than that on the other condensers (i.e., 52 instead of 50).

The circuit enables one to use earphones at the detector output, but the lack of providing for this purpose, J1, to facilitate the tuning in of distant stations, and not for personal telephone reception. On that account the rheostat that controls three tubes the detector and two audio tubes has no ordinary switching arrangement. That is, when the detector tube is lighted the audio tubes must be lighted. Otherwise there would be something wrong with the wiring. If the diagram were the guide, J2 is for insertion of the plug to which the speaker coils are attached.

The circuit comprises two stages of tuned radio-frequency amplification, tube detector and two transformer-coupled stages of audio-frequency amplification.

The Tubes.
The tubes should be 201A, operated from a six-volt storage battery, with 45 volts or less of B battery on the detector plate and 50 on the RF and audio amplifier plates. The set will operate fairly well on dry-cell tubes such as the 100 type, but the greater volume and amplification from the large tubes make it well worth while to spend the extra amount of money. Except with some types of superheterodynes, the small tubes, or any dry-cell tubes, are not for a permanent job.

Circuit Diagram of Standard Five-Tube Tuned RF Set.

next set, because in time the radio receiver goes over to the dry-cell tubes.

The following parts will be needed:
Three radio-frequency transformers are basket-weave (L112, L24, L24).

Three 00005 mfd. variable condensers, C1, C2, C3.

One 7 by 18 inch panel.

One 2 1/2 by 17 inch socket shelf, with five sockets.

Two ten-ohm rheostats.

One double-circuit jack, J1.

One single-circuit jack, J2.

One 2 meg. grid leak.

One 00005 mfd. grid condenser.

Two audio-frequency transformers.

Three four-inch dials.

Three dial pointers.

One A battery switch.

To Use Loop Aerial

To hook a loop aerial in an ordinary five-tube set, disconnect the primary and secondary of the first RF transformer and about the loop across the variable condenser which originally tuned the RFT.

The extreme disadvantage of a loop antenna, however, is that with the loss of directional quality and possible selectivity, the overall received signal strength from a given station is usually very much reduced requiring a receiver of extreme sensitivity, and possibly instability, if far-distant stations are to be received.

The drawing illustrates four different methods of connecting loop antennas to a radio receiver set. It will be often found that by using either of the methods shown here satisfactory reception of local and semi-distant broadcasting stations up to possibly 200 to 300 miles can be had.

When using a loop with noninductive radio receiver, it is extremely desirable that the loop be placed from 6 feet to 20 feet away from the receiver to eliminate possible interference with one another. Radios with a loop can probably be operated if not shielded by using about 30 feet of wire strung around the picture making, making up a simple indoor antenna. Check local laws.

Other and Misogyn

The meaning of the terms often and misogyn often is misinterpreted by the radio fan. However, they both are electrical units of resistance.

The ohm is the fundamental unit and is the amount of opposition to the flow of an electric current which will cause the current to drop one volt when forced through at one ampere.

As the term implies, a megohm is 1,000,000 ohms.

Directions with greater strength to be given to the antenna. Also, in setting a loop to help in selecting the station, the antenna or loop, in this case, is an antenna, and it is in this antenna that the signal is received. Interference from unshielded wires or from static.

Nutty Natural History

By HUGH HUTTON.

THE SOFT-SHELLED GINGER-SNAPPER.

This pestilent creature is rather plentiful in the dairying regions of Wisconsin and Nevada, where it inhabits the streams running through cow pastures. The unwary cow that wanders within reach of its powerful jaws is likely as not to have the lower part of her legs snapped off. This first time is not so bad, but as a cow does not learn from experience, the legs are lopped off again from time to time. In some districts the cows have become too short-legged to milk, and, not being beef cows, the only use for them is to train them as ferrets to chase jack-rabbits out of their holes.

The gingersnapper is mainly constructed from an ordinary gingersnap, with clove legs and horns attached. The head is a single peanut with pen and ink impression, and the tail is a toothpick broken here and there. The beast, however, is rather too dangerous for a house pet. (Metropolitan Newspaper Service.) (Tomorrow—The Hudson Bay Strich.)

STONE RIDGE.
Stone Ridge, Feb. 5.—A clam chowder supper will be served in the lecture room of the Methodist Church Tuesday evening, February 16, at 6 o'clock. The menu is clam chowder, potato salad, baked beans, cabbage, salad, jello, pickles, Boston brown and white bread, cake and coffee. The proceeds from this supper will be used for the equipment of the primary and junior classes of the Sunday school. All are invited.

Notaries Public.
The following have been appointed notaries public in and for Ulster county by Governor Alfred E. Smith: Henry Dwight Abel, Saugerties; Morris Haefter, Greenfield, town of Wawarsing.

Louisiana Only State Which Grows Perique

In the parish of St. James, a short way from New Orleans, is a historic and picturesque industry, infinitesimal in comparison with many of the other bountiful agricultural crops of the state, but which is peculiarly Louisianaian, says a press dispatch from Baton Rouge. This is the perique tobacco industry, alone in the world.

First grown many years ago by an Acadian whose name the tobacco now bears, its cultivation has been kept up continuously ever since by direct lineal descendants of the original St. Perique. Cultivation is confined to a very small area on the banks of the Mississippi, where a favorable combination of soil and climate is particularly adapted to its growth. This tobacco, which finds its chief use as a seasoning for mixtures, is exceedingly strong, with a distinct flavor and aroma. Not many more than 500 acres are given over to its growth.

South American Countries
Origin of the names of the various countries in South America have been accepted as follows: Argentina—Spanish. Silver Republic. Brazil—from the Portuguese Brasa, a fire coal, from the color of its dyewoods. Chile—probably from the Quichua "Chiri," meaning cold. Colombia—named from Christopher Columbus. Peru—probably from Biru, a noted Indian chief of that part of the country. Venezuela—so named on account of its supposed resemblance to the city of Venice. The early explorer discovered an Indian village in which the houses were built on piles. Bolivia—named for Simon Bolivar, a South American patriot. Ecuador—the full name is Republica del Ecuador meaning Republic of the Equator. Paraguay and Uruguay—both named for rivers; the former means "the golden water"; the latter "river of waters," referring to the numerous tributaries.

"The Good That Men Do"
The blessings which good men bestow on others is not so much in any special act of admonition or encouragement, or in any gift they make, as in the abiding tenor of their inward lives. There are many whose hands give favors and whose words send joy, who yet cannot reach that which gives a rarer and finer delight still. For there are some whose very presence is a blessing—whom to look upon is to feel new courage to take up toil, deprivations, cares; to think hopefully of man; to believe in noble achievement possible, and victory sure for all that deserves to succeed; to see a more glorious sun, and feel breezes from the eternal hills; where God's own might abides.—Samuel Johnson, in "The Duty of Delight."

Philathea and Baracca Banquet

The annual banquet of the Philathea and Baracca Classes of the White Street Baptist Church was held at the church parlors Tuesday evening. The banquet was attended by over 150. Dr. Hoeve was the speaker of the evening, taking as his interesting topic, "Character Building." The Rev. C. B. Smith, pastor of the church, acted as toastmaster and called on several of those present for remarks, among them being Floyd W. Powell and the Rev. R. P. Ingersoll, former pastor of the church. Mr. Ingersoll also sang a solo, "Sort of Miss You," accompanied by Mrs. Ingersoll at the piano. He was called upon for an encore as was Miss M. Helen Free, who sang "Waiting," accompanied by Miss Elsie M. Wickeser of Rhinebeck.

The banquet, which consisted of hot roast beef and all that goes with it, was enjoyed as was the program which followed the serving of the banquet. The room was decorated for the occasion, the decorations consisting of yellow candles and yellow flowers.

How to Kill the Common Barberry

Such Chemicals as Salt and Kerosene Recently Found Effective.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

The more recently adopted method of killing the root on barberry which spreads black stem rust of grain, is by the use of such chemicals as salt and kerosene. The methods of their application are described in Department Circular 276 just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. These methods have several advantages over the digging method formerly used. They are less laborious, cheaper and more certain. This is especially true if bushes are growing in stony ground where digging is difficult.

The circular also gives a good description of the harmful common barberry and of the harmless Japanese barberry, a desirable ornamental shrub.

The salt treatment is effective at any season when the ground is not frozen. It consists, briefly, of placing sufficient salt around the base of the plant so as to surround all shoots.

Crushed rock salt, often called ice-cream salt, is preferable as it dissolves slowly, although ordinary flake or pucker salt, commonly used on farms, is satisfactory. For a bush having a group of shoots about 12 inches in diameter at the base, use ten pounds of dry salt; for one 6 inches in diameter, use about five pounds. For large clumps or hedges use proportionately larger quantities of salt. The salted plants may be cut down or left standing. Standing bushes make it easier later to locate and determine the extent of the killing. Bushes near valuable trees or shrubs should be dug or pulled. The use of salt or kerosene will harm the trees or shrubs as well as the barberry bushes.

Kerosene Successful.

The kerosene method is successful if applied at any time during the growing season but the action of the kerosene is slow, and immediate results should not be expected. Apply kerosene to the base of the plant so that it wets the base of every shoot and also the ground for 3 or 4 inches around every shoot. One gallon of kerosene is necessary to kill a bush 12 inches in diameter at the base, and two quarts should be applied to a bush 6 inches in diameter.

For their own safety, as well as to prevent scattering of the salt, cattle and poultry that are salt hungry should be kept away from the treated bushes. If this is impossible the salt may be covered with dirt or crowding of the poultry house. Under farm conditions at least three square feet of floor space should be provided for each bird. In order to obtain the use of the entire floor space of the house, a board may be placed under the roosts to prevent the droppings from contaminating litter. If the dropping board is placed 20 inches high and is not more than 6 inches in width, it will not be dark underneath the dropping board. To insure equal distribution of light over the floor, a window may be placed under the dropping board. In putting a window on the north side of the house, extreme care must be taken that it is put in tight to prevent possible drafts.

Manure Applied to Land While Fresh Best Plan

The best time to put manure on the land is just as soon after the excrement is voided as is possible and profitable. In some respects, the best method consists in transferring the manure directly from the stall to the spreader and hauling it out daily or as often as a load accumulates. This method requires only one handling; it gets the manure to the fields with the smallest possible loss of fertility constituents; it gets the manure on the soil one crop year earlier in many cases; and it does away with the nightly, malodorous, and wasteful manure pile.

brush. A copy of the circular may be secured free of charge as long as the supply lasts by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Farmers Use Limestone to Increase Fertility

The use of ground limestone is increasing very rapidly, as hundreds of farmers have demonstrated that it is an investment that yields big returns. Much land that is sour will produce fine clover, and even alfalfa, if properly sweetened with ground limestone—and a good time to apply it is during the fall months. In numerous communities farmers are organizing little companies for the purchase of limestone crushers, for one such machine can easily serve a dozen or fifteen farmers and thus the investment for each farmer is very small. "More clover on every farm" would not only provide millions of extra tons of succulent feed, but it would also greatly increase our soil fertility—and this is one of the big questions in the future of agriculture.

Overcrowding Great Evil in Winter Poultry Houses

Without doubt the greatest evil in winter poultry management is overcrowding.

Condition of Fur
Fur is in prime condition for harvesting at one brief season only, according to the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture. Ill-advised open seasons are a potent result of the lack of sufficient information regarding the life habits of fur animals, says the department. A defect frequently noted in present fur laws is that the open season provided is so long that it permits trapping before pelts are prime in fall and after breeding has begun in spring. An open season of more than three months' duration, it would seem, is not justifiable anywhere in the United States. Far too many unprofitable pelts are coming to the raw fur markets every year. Pelts of superior quality would reach the markets if these facts were appreciated and laws framed accordingly.

Original Gold Pens

Gold was first used in the making of pen points in the United States in 1835. Soon it was found necessary to harden the points of these pens, and this was done by protecting them with diamonds or rubies, which made the pens very costly and consequently very rare. John Hawkins, to whom is due the discovery that an alloy of iridium and osmium soldered on to the gold would serve the purpose just as well as the gem stones and at much less cost, was the first to use iridium.

In 1850 his method was superseded and for the first time iridium was fused with the gold and a much stronger and more durable penpoint was produced. Over 100,000 pens are manufactured every year by one firm alone.

Birds Great Travelers

The journeys undertaken by some birds are really marvelous. The tiny goldcrest—the smallest European bird—weighing but a dram, and some other avian Lilliputians cross the waters of the North sea on dark November nights, while some species of sandpipers migrate from islands well within the Arctic circle to New Zealand and Cape Horn. These wonderful aerial feats are undertaken by birds barely three months old. The Arctic tern, a common sea swallow, flies almost from pole to pole twice a year.—London Discovery.

African Bearers Easily Pleased

Explorers through the wilds of Africa are not embarrassed by undue labor costs, as the bushmen there are the burden bearers for visitors. A man carries 60 pounds on his head, is able to travel 15 miles a day with ease, and will bear his burden 25 miles for $2.50 and then walk back home filled with joy because he has had a real journey and plenty of fun. The carriers are particularly well fed and they like that.

Dainty Scarfs in Brilliant Colors

Attractive Neckwear From Many Countries Now on Display.

It is interesting to see the suggestion of nationality that is expressed in the great variety of things for the neck now shown by all the shops, large and small. On long showcases, says a fashion writer in the New York Times, are gay silk crepe and chiffon scarfs that might be taken for the flags of France, Italy or any other country. These scarfs are either printed in the different colors on one piece, or are made of strips of alternating materials. Stunning effects are given in red, orange, blue or green material in three-inch lengths sewn together. Plaids and checks are equally popular. Many Scotch tartans may be traced in the patterns of the latest and most picturesque neck scarfs.

In the departments of neckwear this idea is illustrated in Roman stripes, Scotch plaids and the printed designs characteristic of many foreign peoples. Now that gowns are worn high in the neck there has been a demand for many forms of neckwear. There are waistcoats of plain goods severely tailored, of showy stripes in two colors, in black and white and in checks that may properly be described as "loud." The small plaid patterns are used also in yokes with little revers, collars and cravat

GRAY IS NOT CONSPICUOUS IN PARIS BUT IS ACCLAIMED IN AMERICA FOR SPRING.

Persistent rumors of gray keep floating overseas, from, not toward, America. This by no means implies that because it is a "native son" it has no chance of success. Many modes do really start at home, but they are inclined to receive a greater impetus when they have journeyed to Paris and come back again. There is at this time very little reason in Paris to regard gray as important. Last season Palm Beach gave some slight indication of the rebirth into favor of the soft neutral grays, but Paris was enamored of pinkish tan tones at that time, and so gray received little encouragement. In spite of this it has apparently loomed large on the horizon for spring.

Coat of Slate Gray Needle-point With a Lavish Decoration of Gray Mole. Outlined With Silver Braid. The Huge Pockets of the Felt Are Especially Interesting.

There are some gray collared coats here in Paris, but far more brown ones, black trimmed with brown being, as always, a favorite color scheme of the Parisienne, and since gloves and other details have fallen into the habit of matching, it follows that one sees few gray accessories either on this side of the water.

There are many interesting models developed in taffeta designed for Southern, and later on, for spring wear, and milliners are in consequence using taffeta often in two or three tones following Reboux's success in her three-toned tam. Many of the newest hats have crowns which if not exactly tams are at least decidedly draped, the movement being toward the back in drapery, and where brims are concerned the back is either cut away or turned up. The newest hatpins are quite as beautiful as diamond brooches, and are made after jewelers' designs. (Copyright, 1925, Fairchild.)

Thieves Make Paste Gems Florida Vogue

West Palm Beach, Fla. — Palm Beach, queen of the winter social whirl, has exalted the dime-store diamond. Paste pearls and sparkling plate-glass diamonds will glitter at social functions this winter.

Synthetic gems will be the rage in Palm Beach this season. And all because sneak thieves have been reported active in the winter resort almost as soon as the season opened. It became known that the winter home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace H. Work, Madison, N. J., had been entered by thieves. A watch, some jewelry and some clothing belonging to the second daughter, were taken.

A dozen of the colony's wealthiest and most prominent social leaders have played their gems in banks for safekeeping. It was reported, however, that the jewels are to remain in Palm Beach this season, then to any other winter.

Knew His Staff

Mrs. Brady was unable to take the little boy to school for his first day. The little boy was intended to be the first of the little boys who will be sent to school this morning at the age of five.

When his mother asked him, "What is your name?" he was taken by surprise and other frightened.

"Mr. Brady," he answered politely. — Los Angeles Times

HELP YOURSELF TO HEALTH

Jealous Women

YOU can't blame them. Beauty and health are given but they are difficult to keep. No wonder women guard them jealously. No wonder their mirrors reveal the furtive glances of the afraid. It is too bad that women do not realize that constipation's ruinous poisons undermine health, destroy beauty, sap vitality and sicken with headaches. But thank goodness, beauty and health may be safeguarded by safely, surely and permanently relieving constipation with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

No matter if constipation has become chronic, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will bring permanent relief. This is why: ALL-BRAN journeys through the body unchanged in fiber. It is what doctors call a bulk food. It is 100% bran and brings 100% results.

As Kellogg's ALL-BRAN sweeps through the intestine, it cleans and purifies—stimulates the flow of digestive juices—absorbs and carries moisture. It causes a laggard intestine to function as nature intended.

That's the splendid thing about the action of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—it promotes natural, healthy and regular elimination. Eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every day—in chronic cases, with every meal. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or the grocer returns the purchase price. Its delightful nutty flavor makes it good as a cereal. Serve with milk or cream alone, or with fresh or preserved fruit—sprinkle over other cereals; cook with hot cereals; use in soups, or in the recipes on the package. Be sure you get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Don't accept a part-bran product, for it cannot do a whole-bran job. Chances are, it will do no good at all. Don't take chances. All grocers sell Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Leading hotels and restaurants serve it.

Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek, Michigan

The original ALL-BRAN—ready-to-eat and amusement. The huge and towering head-gear of the American colonies never reached quite such startling heights and proportions as they did in France and England, but they did adopt the hair-roll, wearing it in various sizes and shapes as their fancy, or Puritan husbands, dictated. The popularity of this artificial stuffing lasted for 50 years. Stores advertised "Hair-powder—plain and scented, blue, brown, marcel and white." Great puffs and cushions were used, and as is the case with any feminine whim, these were considered very lovely by the young men. One gentleman wrote of his young sweetheart—"Her hair covered her cushion as a plate of most beautiful enamel frosted with silver." How ready are the suitors of the fair ladies, to notice their fancies and foibles—and whether the record is favorable or sarcastic, they sish with pleasure at the glances gained!

One bright and charming young girl wrote in her diary of the head-roll which she had to wear—"It makes my head itch and ache and burn, Mama!" "Is made not wholly of a red Cow's Tail, but is a mixture of that and horsehair!" and measured an inch taller than my face alone."

The curls which covered these rolls were subjected to hours of careful curl-papering. They were supposed to be of a geometric symmetry and perfection, which when once achieved, was cherished most carefully. Many startling inventions were announced for fixing the hair in an immovable position. One advertisement reads: "A new method of succeeding the hair in the most fashionable taste, to last with very little repair until during the whole season. Price only five guineas. N. B.—He takes but one hour to build the head, and two to bake it."

All in all our modern permanents are not so wonderful, then! FAIRCHILD FASHION SERVICE. (Copyright, 1926, Fairchild.)

C. E. Birthday Celebrated

Forty-fifth Anniversary of Founding of Christian Endeavor Society Fittingly Observed Here—Catskill Clergyman Delivers Interesting Address.

Delegates from twenty-one Christian Endeavor chapters of Ulster county gathered at the Fair Street Reformed Church Wednesday evening to celebrate the forty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Christian Endeavor movement in Portland, Maine, in 1881, by Dr. Francis H. Clark.

One hundred and forty-seven delegates sat down to a delightful supper at 6:30 which was followed by several impromptu speeches by leaders of the different societies and the main address of the evening by the Rev. George W. Rockwell of Catskill.

L. C. Dixon of Hurley presided over the meeting and introduced the several speakers who gave short addresses. The speakers were the Rev. F. W. Moot, of Congregational Church, the Rev. A. S. Cole, of Albany Avenue Baptist Church, the Rev. Mr. Coffey, of Phoenixia; the Rev. Mr. Bedford, of Bloomington; the Rev. W. A. Dalton, of Highland; the Rev. Charles Smith, of Wurts Street Baptist Church, Robert Kennedy, of Catskill, and Mrs. M. E. Maynard of Highland.

The Rev. George W. Rockwell of Catskill gave a very interesting and inspirational message on the great success of the Christian Endeavor movement and the factors which have made the organization a movement which has circled the world.

Why C. E. Has Grown.

Mr. Rockwell stated that from the very first plan and ideals set forth by Dr. Clark the Christian Endeavor movement has grown to be a worldwide movement and not only a tremendous success materially but in impression also. The success of the movement will be eternal simply because when the founder inaugurated the organization he did not try to line up the people merely to the interests of his parish but for the good and betterment of all those who would follow.

The three sources of the permanency of the movement are the three great principles upon which the movement is founded, which are: the word, the Christ, and the service.

The Bible.

The word of the movement is the word of God, that is the Bible which the founder has exalted in the forming of the ideals of the organization. There are many good books in the world today but the greatest and the supreme book of them all is the Bible. Although the Bible has many virtues as definite, clear and reliable statements, its greatest virtue is that it contains the authoritative word of God from beginning to end.

Christ.

The second source of the permanency of the movement is that it is founded on the Christ. There have been many good men and wise men and great teachers in the world in days gone past and there are still many today but past and present, Christ stands the supreme teacher of them all. Christ's great value to the world lies not in the fact that he was a great teacher and of historical value but that he was sent into the world to serve as an example to the people, that is, to exemplify God's word. Christ has put his spirit into the religion as no other leaders of any religion have done.

Service.

The last principle of the Christian Endeavor which has made it a lasting movement is the fact that it is founded upon service. The organization has never lacked leaders who have been willing to give up their lives if need be to carry out the work of the Christian Endeavor. The members of the organization have always been alert to perform sacrificial service for the movement. A good instance of this service is brought out by the practical work which has been done by Billy Sunday about the country. Wherever an election was soon to be held and the outlook appeared dark and it appeared as if the wrong type of men would win in the political battles, this noted campaigner would set up a tabernacle campaign. If it was a prohibition issue the usual result would be that even the wettest of the states would report a dry election. There are many others who have been willing to sacrifice for the work and have gone off into forsaken countries as missionaries.

Cocos Might Well Be

Named Treasure Island

Perhaps one of the most famous of all spots where treasure is reputed to be buried in Cocos Island, Cocos Island is a beautiful volcanic spick haunted by the spirit of pirate delirium. It belongs to Costa Rica and lies 300 miles off her coast. Cocos is uninhabited except by a governor, a German by birth, described as a huge person physically. He has been there more than 25 years. In that time his eyes have witnessed so many parties of adventurers, fortune-hunters and mere sensation-seekers in the frantic efforts to dislodge the hoarded gold, that he has lost all count of their number, George Gercke tells us, in the New York Evening World.

It appears that about 1812 a Spaniard of high lineage was cruising Caribbean waters as a licensed privateer for the purpose of protecting galleons that were conveying gold bars from Italian mines to the courts of Spain and the Vatican. Becoming tired of the weary work, he grew covetous of such enormous wealth, decided he needed it more than did king or pope, and proceeded to get up a mutiny among part of his crew. These cut the throats of the honest men. High up on the masthead they ran the black flag. He named himself Benito Bonito, surveyed his gang of hoarded pirates and looked forward to that career as buccaneer which was to last successfully for just four years.

Bonito and his crew became the terror of the day, overhauling treasure ships, sacking churches, mines and palaces. His loot was becoming so heavy that he was finally forced to seek a safe place of concealment. So on Cocos island, the pirates killed wild hogs and tanned the skins to make bags which they used to pack and store the heaps of gold and jewels. These sacks were placed in a cave, the spot carefully marked, and away they sailed for new adventures.

Want Peons Ignored

Five rural school teachers have been murdered in Mexico within a year, either by, or at the instance of estate owners who resent the government's attempt to abolish illiteracy among their peons.

"According to reports in the office of the ministry of education," says El Universal, "the government's school program has been received with enthusiasm by some country employers who have given loyal assistance to the work of spreading primary instruction among the people; but in other cases the hacendados have opposed bitterly the advent of the spelling book on their estates."—Living Age.

Are You Being Sold or Served?

IS your motor car maker serving you or selling you—which? Does he intrigue you with yearly models and rash promises or does he protect your investment?

To serve means a new car only every four or five years—or more. To sell means a new car every year or two—or even less!

Packard is in the business of serving—knowing that those who serve best will never want for sales.

Evidently the public appreciates that Packard is serving, for more than twice as many Packard Six cars were bought in 1925 as in 1924.

The Packard Six with all its comfort, beauty and distinction is not high in price—for example, the five-passenger sedan costs but $2585 at the factory. And there is a liberal monthly payment plan which removes the last reason why anyone should not be served by a Packard Six.

The Packard Six may be had in nine beautiful, distinctive body types, four open and five enclosed.

Jury Exonerates Kivana of Murder

Unecola, N. Y., Feb. 5.—Exonerated by a jury of taking part in the murder of Ernest L. Whitman, a bond salesman during a Long Island bank hold-up, Stanley Kivana was made an effort today to free himself completely by furnishing the $25,000 bail in which he was held as a material witness.

Ambrose Ross, twice saved from the electric chair, testified that Kivana had a hand in the murder of his part.

Not one of us believed Ross's story, one juror said.

NOTE ON WOODLOCK WILL BE VERY CLOSE

Washington, Feb. 5.—Although urged to do so by administration leaders President Coolidge has declined to withdraw the nomination of Thomas F. Woodlock of New York as a member of the interstate commerce commission, and indications today pointed to a close vote on his confirmation with the possibility of its being rejected. A coalition of insurgent Republicans and Democrats oppose Woodlock, because of his financial connections and because the vacancy for which he was nominated calls for a Democratic appointee.

Consistent advances were made in the motor and specialty stocks. Chrysler rose to 52 and Hudson moved up to about 115.

The traction companies' stocks made new gains of one to six points, after which profit taking was in good volume and most prices were shaded. General Electric, DuPont and other high priced specialties were generally higher.

Smith Arrested On Arson Charge

Anthony Smith of this city was arrested Wednesday by Sergeant Cunningham, of the state troopers, on a warrant issued by Judge Fowler, charging him with arson, third degree. Smith when arraigned before Judge Fowler Thursday demanded an examination. Chris J. Flanagan appeared for him and asked that the hearing be set down for February 11 at 2 o'clock before Judge Fowler.

Smith is charged with arson, third degree, in having set fire to the bungalow of his brother-in-law, Lester Schryver, at LeFevre Falls, town of Rosendale, on February 1. On Tuesday Sergeant Cunningham and Trooper Caldwell were called to LeFevre Falls to investigate the fire and after an extended investigation there their clues led to Kingston. Evidence received at LeFevre Falls led to the suspicion of Smith who was located here by Sergeant Phineas, of the local police force. On the evidence disclosed at LeFevre Falls, as well as that secured in Kingston, Smith was taken into custody Wednesday evening by Sergeant Cunningham and placed in jail.

Assail Action On Temperance

Social Service Commission Says Dr. Empringham Had No Right to Speak For The Episcopal Church.—Declarations Irresponsible Says Secretary.

New York, Feb. 5.—Unequivocally repudiating the assertions of the Rev. Dr. James Empringham on the subject of the modification of the Volstead act, the Rev. Charles K. Gilbert, secretary of the Social Service Commission of the Diocese of New York, today issued a statement saying that Dr. Empringham "has no right whatever to speak for the Episcopal church on any subject."

The Social Service Commission is the official board of the Episcopal church in the Diocese of New York. Concurrent with the Diocesan official's statement, similar repudiations of the action taken by the Church Temperance Society were made by S. E. Nicholson, secretary of the Anti-Saloon League of America since 1918, and Orville S. Poland, head of the legal department of the Anti-Saloon League of New York.

Stating that Dr. Empringham's views are not representative of the opinion of the Churchmen's Association, the Rev. Mr. Gilbert characterized them as "irresponsible declarations with regard to the Episcopal church and prohibition."

"The Churchmen's Association is an organization of Episcopal clergy meeting for social purposes only," said Dr. Gilbert, "and one of its rules is that publicity shall never be given to matters which come before it. It would, therefore, be unfortunate if the impression were given that the Association has in any way endorsed Dr. Empringham's sentiments."

Dr. Gilbert expressed the belief that the Church Temperance Society, represented by Dr. Empringham, had been defunct since 1918. Concluding on the possibility of action on the prohibition question in the Social Commission, as intimated in Dr. Empringham's report, Dr. Gilbert said:

BISHOP MANNING WILL TALK ON PROHIBITION.

New York, Feb. 5.—An official statement of the attitude of the Episcopal Church toward the liquor problem seemed in prospect today as it was announced that Bishop William T. Manning was preparing a sermon to be delivered in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine next Sunday morning on "The Question of Prohibition."

THE SIMPLICITY OF LINCOLN

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WITHOUT perfection such as fame
Would give you now, nor yet to blame

For errors charged against you
Then

You loom so high o'er other men
That men may oftentimes forget
Your greatest greatness. It was met
Not in the greatness many see
But in your great simplicity

To that high office that you call
The highest eminence of all
You brought a spirit lowly, brought
The simple truths that Nancy taught.

And touched a title with the gleam
Of brotherhood and made it seem
A nobler thing to be
Than any crown of majesty

For that we love you Lincoln—for
The plain humanity you were
In all your greatness, standing thus
Beside mankind, not over us
And this I truly have believed
That all the good that you achieved
The things accomplished came to be
Because of your simplicity

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

THE SILENT CONFLICT

AS BETWEEN the roaring guns of contending armies on the field of battle, and the silent conflict which noble men and women have with the evil spirit in the solitude of night, or in the bustle of the busy day, there is but slight difference.

When all things are considered, the contentions of the armies and the intentions of the lone individual, the silent conflict is frequently the more difficult of the two.

Accustomed for years to look on perpetual habits with complacency, the thoughtful man or woman frequently awakens to the terrible wreck he or she is making of opportunity and life.

There is born in an instant a resolute to break the trammels, to pull away from perilous positions and seek a new haven of peace and safety.

Then begins the stern struggle in a world hushed from the ears of others, who may pass by without suspecting the tumult in the soul of him or her who is making a last stand, fighting valiantly inch by inch to overcome the invisible enemy.

It is easy to read about a conquering hero, but it requires hard exertion of will power and unyielding strength to become one.

Hitherto the man or woman had found it good policy to drift along blindly, but now, in the new light, all things are changed.

That which was seductive is now repulsive, hateful, horrible.

The good, sunny part of nature lifts up its trembling hands to the sky and cries earnestly for deliverance from galling bondage.

And if the shackled soul be true to itself, true to the faith which was born in a night, this one spark of nobility will eventually find the freedom it craves, for there is nothing impossible to him or her who can out-ride the shadow of doubt.

The ride may be hazardous, up ditz-zy elevations, down dismal gulfs, over treacherous quicksands, through lands of temptations and snared pits of iniquity, but the clean, cool summit in the distance is waiting with outstretched arms to bestow on him or her who presses on in belief, the unspeakable peace for which the silent conflict is waged.

Ride on through the minutes of Time, ye brave, and the ages of Eternity will give you enduring bliss!

ENGLISH TRACK STARS INVITED

Asked to Participate in Big Relay Carnival.

Oxford and Cambridge universities have been invited to again compete in the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival which will be held on April 23 and 24. The coming carnival marks the thirty-second milestone in one of America's greatest athletic meets.

H. Jamison Swartz, manager of the meet, extended an invitation to the English colleges in letters to Lord Burghley, president of the Cambridge Athletic association and Arthur Porritt who holds the same position at Oxford.

Burghley and Porritt, competed in the relay carnival last year, the former winning the 400 meters hurdle race from a fast field of American distance timber toppers. Porritt who scored points for Great Britain in the last Olympic games did well in both the century and furlongs.

It has been suggested to both Porritt and Burghley that they make up a relay team to compete on the first day of the program in the 480-yard shuttle race, a new event on the program. The shuttle relay is common in England, but has not been used in this country to any great extent.

Each man would run 120 yards over the high hurdles, handing the baton to a teammate who would be on his mark, prepared to retrace the steps of the first runner.

It has been suggested also that the Englishmen enter a team in one of the following relay races, 850 yards, distance college model (440 yards, 1/2 mile and mile) or the spring hurdles (440 yards, 220 yards, and 840 yards).

For the second day it has been suggested that Burghley and Porritt form teams to compete in the one, two, one-half and four mile relay races.

Should the invitation be accepted, Burghley is expected to defend his 400-meter championship in the hurdles, while Porritt competes in the 100 and 220-yard dashes.

Clymer Quits Reds

Bill Clymer, coach for the Cincinnati Reds last season, may wind up as manager of some minor league team in 1926. The popular veteran did not sign a new contract with the Reds because of his own wish. Bill had the third base coaching assignment at Cleveland field and he found the "antics" pretty hard to get along with. Heady Day was one of the most successful of minor league glibsters a few years ago and will be a good bet for some club.

Sport Notes

Czechoslovakia has become famous for its woman athletes.

St. Louis wants the 1926 Mississippi valley power boat championships.

The American people spend no less than $50,000,000 annually for equipment in all sports.

Charles F. Crowley, head football coach at Columbia university the past season, has been reappointed.

A race horse has been named after Red Grange but chances are that Red is too smart to back the nag with his money.

Tom Jenkins, one of the best known of the professional grapplers of a decade or two ago, is coaching the wrestling team at West Point.

Ernie Nereis, star football player of Stanford university, California, has been signed by the St. Louis Browns. He is a right handed pitcher.

Professional football players are barred as coaches in the Southern Intercollegiate conference and are not permitted to officiate in any conference games.

Ed Robinson, for 24 years football coach at Brown, will not return next fall. His name has been mentioned frequently in connection with the Harvard post.

The Pittsburgh Pirates have released under option Third Baseman Richard Hughes to the Waterbury club of the Eastern league. Hughes was purchased from the Williamsport, New York-Pennsylvania league.

Offer of $250,000 for Famous Pompey Refused

The New York Sun says it has learned W. H. Coe, well-known turfman, refused an offer of $250,000 for his renowned three-year-old colt, Pompey, champion money winner of 1925 as a two-year-old.

Mr. Coe declined to disclose the identity of the sponsor of the offer but expressed the conviction he could have obtained a record price of $275,000 for the colt if negotiations had been pursued. The present record of $250,000 was made when the late Maj. August Belmont purchased Tracery from an Argentine breeder.

William Sharpe Kilmer of Birmingham, N. Y., owner of Pompey's sire, Sun Brilar, was credited with offering $170,000 last summer for Mr. Coe's colt.

Pompey won more than $120,000 in stakes last season, including victories in the Saratoga Hopeful and Belmont Futurity.

Champion Ice Skater

Here is an interesting photograph of Arthur Staff, the world's champion ice skater, who will shortly journey to New York, where he will meet Ned and Lucie in a match that should be thrilling.

Honor Robert Gardner

Robert A. Gardner, a member of Onwentsia club in Lake Forest and one of America's greatest amateur golfers, has been selected by the United States Golf association to lead the American Walker cup team to England early in June. Other members of the team will be Bobby Jones, Watts Gunn, Jesse Gullford, Frances Outmet, Jess-Sweetser, George von Elm and Roland MacKenzie.

Joe Beckett Would Try Boxing Game Once More

Can battle-hungry Joe Beckett, fallen idol of British boxing fans, come back? Beckett himself seems to think he can and it is reported that he has agreed to accept a reasonably small guarantee in his efforts to get another ring engagement.

British boxing promoters, however, are not very sanguine about the future of the man who made such miserable showings against Georges Carpentier. As one boxing writer on the other side puts it, the British boxing public has put quite enough during recent years of boxers with past reputations consenting to climb through the ropes ostensibly to take the lion's share of the purse, only to make such a poor showing that the fight degenerated into a farce.

Beckett expressed the desire to meet Phil Scott, who has been creating a stir in the British heavy-weight division recently and Scott's backers immediately offered a side bet of $2,700 on their promise if such bout should materialize. There have been rumblings of the contemplated meeting between the veteran and the new heavy-weight idol, but nothing definite has as yet emerged.

Sporting Squibs

And what does a channel swimmer do in the winter time?

Jack Dempsey seems determined to keep his new nose in the shape it is in now.

Charley Deal, Cub third baseman some years ago, has signed to play with New Orleans.

Unfortunately the average man's interest in winter sports is limited to enjoying pictures of other people engaged in these sports.

Glen Warner's Stanford university football machine will play nine games this year, concluding with California at Berkeley November 20.

The shortest prize fight on record is the one in which Pauline Nelson knocked out William Rooster in two seconds at Haverly, Ill. April 2, 1902.

Ray Hubbard, pitcher, and Dick Lofgren, outfielder, sent to Minneapolis of the American association late in 1925 by the Brooklyn Naugatuck, have been returned to the Dodgers.

Be Dependent or Independent

Are you getting your clothes and energy up on your coffee? If you are getting them why not substitute the BAKER'S COFFEE? The Premium. Want it? Dependence is the worst, where daily necessities are made known and the coffee is daily.

Coach Palen's men after having been beaten by this team are very anxious to smooth over their record and score a triumph over the Middletown aggregation.

FIRE PREVENTION

Question—When a frame building burns down, what is left? Answer—The chimney alone, because it is built of brick. Chimneys are built of brick because they are fireproof. Why not construct the whole building of brick, that is Real Fire Prevention. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. When you build, use brick exclusively. There may be a slight increase in first cost, but always a large saving in maintenance. Building brick and sand. TERRY BROTHERS CO. Tel. 1674.

TWO CONTENTS AT EPWORTH MALL TONIGHT.

Two matches will be staged at Epworth Hall this evening and from advanced dope it appears that these contents will result into two rip-roaring affairs. In the first contest the Clinton Seniors, who have not played for two weeks, will meet the Congregational aggregation. The Ponck-hoek outfit has been improving its brand of basketball for the past two or three weeks and will no doubt give the Clintons a tight race this evening. Coach Van Aken will choose his line up from Clater, Smith, Markle, Ballard, McGinnis, Newkirk, DeGraff and Dingman. The Congregational team will be picked from Stalter, Planthaber, Leubert, Harris, Lawrence or Emmick. Schultz will referee this contest.

In a second match the Clinton Independents will meet the strong Fleischmanns High School, a team with many wins to its credit this season. The Clinton is anxious to take the first match of the series, between the two teams. The second match will be played on the mountain team's court the following week. Coach Chipp will probably start the match with himself at center, A. Chipp and Boyce at the guard posts and Niles and Ernie Greenwell in the forward berths. Corregan will referee the affair.

RED SHIELD TEAM TO MEET POUGHKEEPSIE S. A.

Captain Miller and his Salvation Army quintet will make their second pilgrimage to Poughkeepsie tonight when they battle the Salvation Army team of the Bridge City on the high school court. After having trimmed the crack-Reformed Church aggregation of Poughkeepsie, Captain Miller's aggregation is receiving several offers from teams in the Bridge City which as a rule turns out first rate outfits.

KID MCCOY FULL OF ODD TRICKS

Resorted to Questionable Means to Win in Ring.

Conceding that nothing succeeds like success, neither does anything flop like a flop.

The stories of Kid McCoy's tricks in the ring are standard classics because he got away with them. He'd point to the floor and exclaim: "Look!" and while his opponent on the unprotected jaw. The books say that Sullivan whipped some of his patients by outwitting them or glaring them into panic while they were lacking on the gloves.

Here's the other side:

Two champions were down for a decision, interclass bout which was to be a poke, with the understanding that if the public liked the number they would take several encores. When the act wore out they would enter the ring for a real fight or shooting match.

The smaller champion decided, however, that the big one was a bunny and made up his mind to throw a fight into him.

"Tell that big bum of yours," he phoned to the big champion's manager, "that I'm going to shoot. He can't fight and I'm going to stop him." "You're making a mistake," the manager said, "but if you don't want to use blanks, thanks for telling us. We'll shoot, too."

Before the sixth round the little champion had been knocked out.

Another incident:

As large Bill Brennan stood facing Luis Firpo just before the bell began their fight in the Garden, he playfully reached out, plucked a tuft of fur from Luis Angel's chest, held his glove up to his face and blew the fuzz into Luis Angel's eyes. It was a very insulting way to treat a Wild Bull.

Then large Bill remarked, "Blow on me," insinuating that the Wild Bull fought like a Holstein cow.

In the twelfth round large Bill went down so hard that it took two weeks in a hospital to get him in shape to sit up in bed.

"Grand Old Man"

The photograph shows Connie Mack who has just celebrated his sixty-third birthday and who still functions in the very astute and able manager of the Philadelphia Athletics. Although one would like to call him the "Grand Old Man of Baseball," he would probably resent the "old" part, for he's as young as his youngest player on the Shibe park diamond in Philadelphia. He is shown above with the mace and trade mark of the Athletics.

When Chairs Were Scarce

Chairs, which, with their standard red designs and efficient aids in comfort and movement, typify civilization as much as does anything else, once became popular in England toward the end of the Jacobean period, according to Walter Rendell Storey, writing in the Antiquarian Magazine.

"An inventory," he says, "taken in 1624 at Killing castle, Yorkshire, mentioned only two chairs, although there were 35 stools listed. Even in 1627 when Charles II entertained Cosmo III, Third, grand duke of Tuscany, at dinner, the only chair was that provided for the guest of honor."

Sporting Squibs

For a football player Red Grange as little to kick about.

The new stadium of the University of Missouri, when completed, will seat 9,000.

Carpenter is coming back for a few more of those dear American dollars, isn't his pottery factory doing well?

It is against the law to bet on horse races. As a rule the gamblers lose, and the offense carries with it its own penalty.

Among new freak golf clubs is one in the form of a comb for use in playing out of water. Another driver has a bored tube in the head of a club filled with quicksilver to give added weight and "whip" to playing.

Arnaud Masey, famous French golfer, has been playing the game over thirty years. He won the British open in 1907 and has also capped the French crown. Masey is fifty-two years old and still going strong.
